VALUATION OF PROPERTY IS INCREASED

Assessment Total Will Be More Than $50,000,000, Officials Estimate

Glendale's 1925-26 tax rate will be based on an assessed valuation of slightly over $50,000,000, it was learned today, an increase of approximately $3,000,000. Assessment maps and records are in process of compilation at the present time in the offices of the county assessor.

Because of the fact that last year's figures were not used as a basis for obtaining a valuation, real estate figures in some portions of the city are lower than formerly, it is understood. This is not the situation, however, in some of the newer tracts, where approximately 10 to 15 per cent has been added to the assessed valuation.

Change in Figures
New buildings totaling more than $10,000,000 increased the assessed valuation by between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000, but reductions of approximately $2,000,000 in the total real estate valuation and a big reduction in assessment returns by merchants because of lower stocks of merchandise offset the building and other increases.

Last year's assessed valuation was $47,061,355, with a city tax rate of $1.11 per $100 valuation. Based on the $50,000,000 assessed valuation, the 1925-26 city tax rate will be between $1.22 and $1.25, probably $1.23, with a budget of approximately $575,000 for general government, library and park boards and $775,000 for the public service department. The budget, now in process of completion at a series of meetings of the City Council as a committee of the whole, will be formally adopted either on Thursday or June 30.

Department Cuts
Had requests of various boards and department heads been allowed, however, it is understood that the city tax rate would have been made higher. Big cuts have been made, it is reported, in various department requests, especially in the case of the park board. In other instances slight increases have been allowed in salaries and departmental expense, it is understood.

Canada's Dries Seek Ban on Border Booze

OTTAWA, Ont., June 20.—Canadian prohibitionists today appealed to Premier Mackenzie King to stop liquor smuggling across the American line. "Heading a delegation which appealed to the premier, the Rev. Ben Spence declared that conditions along the border on the St. Lawrence, Niagara, Detroit and St. Clair rivers is a disgrace to Canada. The prohibitionists also appealed to the premier to sponsor legislation to prohibit the manufacture of liquor in any provinces where there are laws against the sale of liquor."

The premier received the dry delegation privately. Spence stated after the interview, he was confident that steps would soon be taken "to put a crimp in the rum runners and end this national disgrace."

WASHINGTON, June 20. Rear Admiral John K. Robinson, who has been passed over twice in promotions in the high command of the navy because of his connection with the Sinclair-Doheny naval oil leases, has applied for retirement with the rank of rear-admiral, it was learned here today. Secretary of the Navy Wilbur recommended to President Coolidge that Robinson's request be approved. Robinson, who is now chief of the bureau of engineering, with the permanent rank of captain and the temporary rank of rear admiral, wants to retire on September 16.

The president is expected to take action on the application before he leaves Washington on Tuesday.

RIFFIAN CHIEF READY FOR LONG WAR

Leader, in Interview, Asserts He Has No Fear Of Franco-Spanish Pact

LONDON, June 20.—Abdel Krim, leader of the Riffian forces making war against Spain and France in Morocco, does not fear a Franco-Spanish alliance against him and is able to hold out for three years more.

In an interview published today by the Rome newspaper Il Popolo D'Italia, Abdel Krim hurled that defiance to the two nations now holding a conference in Madrid for an allied offensive against him. He charged Spain with having offered to sell the Riff country to France for a million francs.

Riff Republic, Hope
It was because of this proposal that he roused the Riffian tribes to war, he declared.

Abdel Krim hopes, he said, that hostilities in Morocco soon will cease and that a Riffian republic will be recognized.

New attacks have been made against the Spanish lines in the vicinity of Tangiers and the Tangiers-Tetuan road has been closed to traffic, said a dispatch from Tangiers to the Times.

Spanish People Opposed To New Action, Is Claimed

MADRID, June 20.—The Spanish people, are opposed to any further military campaign against Abdel Krim, Riffian chieftain and his forces in Morocco.

The attitude of the public has developed tension between French and Spanish delegates in conference here to determine an allied policy to end the war in Morocco, a high Spanish official said today.

Designate Ports For Use In Offensive On Riffians

PARIS, June 20.—Three Spanish ports and two French ports have been designated as available for warships of the two nations in an allied offensive against Abdel Krim and his forces in Morocco.

Announcement of this agreement by the French and Spanish delegates in conference in Madrid was made today by the French foreign office.

CIVIL WAR IS SHITS DEFENSE IMPENDING IN CHINA

Shanghai's Great Opium Graft Prize Lure For Factional Leaders

SHANGHAI, June 20.—Under pressure of the student strike leaders, the Chamber of Commerce tonight rescinded its instructions to call off the strike of the shops and banks and agreed to continue their closure indefinitely.

Meanwhile it is believed the spectre of a great civil war is looming, with Shanghai's $30,000,000 annual opium graft as the prize.

Chang Tso Lin, Manchurian war lord, is continuing to pour Fengtien troops into the Shanghai area, completely encircling the international settlements. It was estimated tonight that 8,000 of his soldiers are already here and more are en route.

Preparing for Attack
Reports from Hangchow indicate Sun Chuan Fang, Tupan of Chekiang province, is mobilizing 50,000 men and preparing for a dash on Shanghai.

It is rumored that Sun Chuan Fang has allied himself with Feng Yua Hsiang, Christian general, who will attack Chang Tso Lin's forces simultaneously near Peking.

No clashes have occurred as yet but the Fengtien regulars of Chang are within a half mile of Lungwha and the occupation of the arsenal there will probably offer the excuse for declaration of war.

Threats of Death
Violent anti-foreign sentiment continues to sweep the country folks in the vicinity of the foreign settlements, they openly declaring that the Fengtien troops have come to Shanghai "to cut the throats of the foreigners."

However, no further reports of violence have reached here. Japanese women are shunning their native kimonos and wearing American clothes because of fear of street attacks.

La Follette's Body In Wisconsin's Capitol

MADISON, Wis., June 20.—Bob La Follette came home to rest today as thousands of his home folk stood silently by with bared heads. The funeral train from Washington ended its long sad journey early this afternoon. The gray coffin containing the body of Wisconsin's honored son was taken immediately from the train to the state capitol.

It was placed in the reception room and tomorrow afternoon will lie in state under the dome of the capitol, where for three terms he had served as governor, and in which his earliest political battles were fought. Just eight months ago La Follette came home through the very station. Cheering thousands greeted him then as he returned from his campaign tour. A mammoth parade accompanied him to the capitol, where he spoke briefly to the home folks and told them of his fight for the presidency.

Health Department Director Aids Prosecution At Shepherd Trial

CHICAGO, June 20.—The defense was given a bad blow in the trial of William D. Shepherd, accused of killing William Nelson McClintock, at today's session, when Dr. Frederick Tonney, director of the health department laboratory, admitted under cross-examination by State's Attorney Crowe that his assistant, Dr. White, had seen "Dr." Charles C. Faiman at the laboratory.

Dr. Tonney also admitted that a dishonest employee could hand out germ cultures at will, and also that he knew Faiman, before he was married, went with a girl employed in the health department. Dr. Tonney testified he obtained the germs, testified that requests must be made for typhoid and other bacilli and that such requests were referred to the bacteriologist in charge.

Make Investigation
Crowe brought out the fact that when requests for bacilli are made by persons unknown to the city bacteriologist, those persons are investigated.

Tonney said he did not know Faiman nor ever received a request from him and that it would not be possible for any one to walk in and obtain live cultures by simply asking the boy behind the counter.

Faiman had testified that he obtained the germs he gave Shepherd simply by walking into the laboratory and asking the clerk for them, that they didn't cost him anything and that he could get more.

Officers Demonstration
The case with which bacteria transfers may be made was demonstrated by Dr. Tonney, who performed a "dummy" transfer with test tubes on the witness stand. "All you need is some test tubes, a wire, a Bunsen burner and some bouillon for feeding purposes and you could fill a million tubes in a short time," asked Crowe.

"Yes," replied Tonney. Crowe went into a discussion of the relative virulence of bacilli contained in solid food or in water. The witness said they probably would be more dangerous to a human being if taken in water.

The prosecutor went into a discussion of the effects of the disease. "Yes," replied Tonney. Crowe went into a discussion of the relative virulence of bacilli contained in solid food or in water. The witness said they probably would be more dangerous to a human being if taken in water.

SEEKING RETURN OF WORTHINGTON

Federal Authorities Trying To Get 'Wolf' Across Mexican Border

Federal authorities today began efforts to complete negotiations with the Mexican government for the return to this country of John W. Worthington, termed the "Wolf of La Salle street," former Chicago broker, who escaped from the Glendale sanitarium ten days ago, while facing a three-year prison sentence for using the mails to defraud. He is held in a Mexican city, presumed to be Tijuana.

Worthington was aided in his escape from Glendale by his daughter, Miss Alice Worthington, who told sanitarium officials that she planned to take him for a short taxi ride about the city. Cashes $1000 Check

He is believed to have changed at some nearby point from the taxi to a private automobile, in which he fled immediately across the border. Shortly before he left he cashed a certified check for $1000.

When brought to the local sanitarium more than a month ago, Worthington was in a critical condition, but he improved steadily in health after arriving here. For a few days before he left the convicted broker had been able to take short walks near the sanitarium.

Elaborate Preparations Are Made to Welcome Throngs At Evolution Trial

DAYTON, Tenn., June 20.—Dayton isn't worried about the problem of providing housing and food for the 10,000 visitors it expects to come here for the trial of John T. Scopes, science teacher, for violating Tennessee's anti-evolution law.

Dayton's official reception committee, composed of C. E. Tolliver, S. C. Patton, B. M. Wilber, W. N. Morgan, representative citizens, believe the housing situation is solved. Incidentally Wilber is the magistrate before whom Scopes had his initial hearing.

Trains and Busses
Those who cannot find accommodations here, in the hotel, in private houses, and tents, can go to Chattanooga in the special trains and busses that have been arranged for. The roads are in fair condition and automobiles can cover the distance between Dayton and Chattanooga, which is the nearest large city, in an hour and a half.

The committee has determined to show the expected guests a good time and the town marshal has agreed to suspend for duration of the trial all nuisance rules and joke traffic laws. The sign "Speed Limit 12 Miles an Hour" will be taken down.

The Presbyterian Tabernacle will be turned into a dining room where 1500 persons may be served at one time. The Ladies' Aid society, which will operate the dining room, will charge $1 for a meal.

Hot dogs, soft drinks, ice cream and fruit stands will line the sidewalks.

The committee has hired a jazz orchestra, which will hold forth at Morgan Springs, a mountain resort eight miles from Dayton, where there will be dancing every afternoon and night.

Thus Dayton will mix jazz, hot dogs, abolition of automobile speeding laws and other earthly affairs with religion during the trial.

Judge Offers To Hear Law's Validity Arguments

WINCHESTER, Tenn., June 20.—The question of whether or not the Tennessee evolution law is unconstitutional can and will be decided in the circuit court at Dayton, provided the attorneys in the case of John T. Scopes, who will go on trial there July 10 for violation of this law, ask for a decision on that legal point.

SAN QUENTIN, June 20.—Another killing took place today within the walls of the state prison here.

Dies Soon After
He went to the jute mills to work, where Keating was apparently waiting. According to the prison authorities Keating stabbed Bentford several times in the abdomen and the man died forty-five minutes later.

A coroner's jury was immediately impaneled to investigate the killing.

Bentford was sentenced from Monterey county for second degree burglary and Keating, said to be a former soldier, was sent up from Sacramento county on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon.

DARE DEATH IN UNKNOWN ON EXPLORING JOURNEY

Millionaire's Son, 14, Joins MacMillan's Expedition At Last Moment

BULLETIN
WISCASSET, Maine, June 20.—Bound for the dual quest of visiting the North pole by the air route and discovery of "the lost continent" north of Alaska, Commander Donald B. MacMillan and the greatest scientific polar expedition ever organized, sailed for the far north at 2:45 o'clock, eastern standard time, this afternoon.

By BERT FORD
For International News Service.
WISCASSET, Maine, June 20.—Commander Donald B. MacMillan, intrepid Arctic explorer and the head of the greatest scientific polar expedition ever organized, started for the frozen north today.

Before the sun sinks over this pretty little Shepley river town the exploration ships Bowdoin and Perry will be out on the broad Atlantic on the northward dash.

A visit to the North pole by air route and discovery of a supposed "lost continent" north of Alaska, 1,000,000 square miles in area, are the two big objectives of the ninth invasion of the far north by the modern Vikings.

Hurrying here from the middle west on the private railroad car of his father, Kenneth L. Rawson, 14-year-old son of the millionaire banker of Chicago, was shipped aboard the Bowdoin a few hours before she sailed today. The boy went before the mast as a common sailor.

Seeks Adventure
Love of the sea and adventure prompted young Rawson to give up the comforts of wealth and civilization to brave the terrors of the Arctic north.

Uncle Sam's naval aviators with the expedition were fired with renewed zeal to reach the pole first, now that Rosal Amundsen and his flyers failed in their flight by a distance of 170 miles because of a shortage of fuel.

Scientists aboard the Bowdoin and Perry centered their attention on the "lost continent" thought to be rich in oil, coals and minerals, fertile with rare vegetation in Arctic summer and populated by rabbits as big as lambs, white wolves and white deer, swarms of great rats, sea gulls with red breasts, white falcon, white and blue geese and possibly by human beings unknown.

May Be Battleground
The charting of air routes and currents around the pole and over the "hidden continent"—perhaps the next air battleground for western civilization—and observation of weather conditions and the advisability of establishing weather stations were other features of the undertaking, sponsored by the National Geographic society, approved by the government, supported by the navy and given the well wishes of the people.

At 2 p. m. (eastern standard time) the hour set for the sailing of the Bowdoin and the Perry, speech making near the docks was in progress and the sailing was delayed.

VIOLETS TO MARK DOG'S LAST HOME

Grave of Bonnie Laddie Is To Be Made Garden;
War Picture Star

A garden of violets, nasturtiums and sweetpeas will mark the grave of Bonnie Laddie, known as the happy dog to hundreds of film stars, the beautiful Scotch collie owned by Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Benneson of 1237 East Maple avenue, Glendale. Bonnie was more than nine years old and died a natural death on Wednesday. Burial services were held yesterday.

The collie was trained from a puppy by the Bennesons, who had no idea Bonnie would become a film star. Yet he "walked right into screen work," Mrs. Benneson related today, in naming over the various features the dog appeared in.

Perhaps the most notable work, and one followed by a personal presentation at the film premier in Glendale some time ago, was "One Clear Call" in which Bonnie Laddie shared honors with Milton Sills, Claire Windsor, Irene Rich and Henry B. Walthall. He played in "The Summons" with Frank Mayo and with Myrtle Stedman as "The Famous Mrs. Fair."

Bonnie Laddie also starred three of six Christie comedies in which he appeared.

HEARTY SUPPORT FOR MUSIC CLUB

Citizens And Organizations
Behind Move To Bring
Better Music Here

Hearty support from Glendale citizens and religious, civic and cultural organizations is being pledged Glendale Music club in the concert series to be presented during the coming season at Broadway High school. Mrs. Mattison Boyd Jones, club president, has received the following letter from Mrs. A. H. Montgomery, president of the Tuesday Afternoon club:

"The Tuesday Afternoon club stands for any movement for the development of the cultural life of the city of Glendale, and as president of that club I can say that we are heartily in favor of plans of Glendale Music club to bring to Glendale, at prices within reach of everyone, such artists as Margaret Matzenauer, Olga Samaroff, Vincente Ballester and Hulda Lashanska.

Music-Loving City
"Glendale is a music-loving city and by supporting the series of concerts outlined by the Music club for the coming season the city will win more laurels through recognition as a city that desires the very best in music."

"If Glendaleans and residents of nearby communities support this venture 100 per cent we will take our stand with Los Angeles and other large cities in bringing west artists of national and international fame. We will be known as a city in which the beauty of music is reflected in the life of every resident, old and young."

Plan Big Program At Salvation Army Hall

Colonel W. J. B. Turner, second in command of the Salvation Army of the western territory, will visit Glendale Sunday and conduct meetings in the local hall. The colonel is an officer of years' experience and has seen service in many different lands. In the meetings some of his experiences will be narrated.

Accompanying the colonel will be the "Charlotte Brigade." This is a group of young men who have recently graduated from the S. A. college in San Francisco and are now touring the western states in a "chariot," spreading the gospel to all the inland towns and villages. They play instruments, sing and are good speakers. One of their specialties is putting gospel words to the popular airs as sung in the present age. Several will be introduced on Sunday either at the street meetings or the gatherings in the hall.

Nova Scotia is to have an automobile gasoline tax of three cents a gallon.

SUNLAND NOTES

SUNLAND, June 20.—Eleven pupils graduated from the Monte Vista school at Sunland. Pupils from the fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grades opened the exercises by a song and carnival dance. Then came a solo dance by Roberta Waters, after which the audience enjoyed music by the Lewis Sisters' orchestra. The graduating class, consisting of ten pupils, then took its place on the stage, and M. L. Juneau, principal of the school, introduced Rev. W. E. Smith, who offered invocation.

Edward Crews was salutatorian and gave a recitation, "The Death of Benedict Arnold." James Knudson of the seventh grade gave a vocal solo, which was followed by music by the school orchestra. Clarice Gregory followed with a recitation, "The Sioux Chief's Daughter," after which Endres Janetsky sang "Come, For It's June." A recitation, "The Light-keeper's Daughter," was rendered by Mary Tosi. Then a boys' chorus gave (a) "Homeward Bound," (b) "Sweet and Low."

Kenneth Knudson gave an outline of "Territorial Development of the United States." Steve Ardizzone, after a song, "The Sunshine of Your Smile," responded to the honor of the Mr. Wilson observatory. Dr. Ellerman has some beautiful colored slides showing some recent discoveries in the science of the stars. Preceding the lecture, beginning at 7 o'clock, Earl Houk will sing several groups of songs.

On Wednesday night, June 10, the members of the graduating class and teacher of the Monte Vista school of Sunland were guests of honor at a chicken dinner given by the Parent-Teacher association, the mothers of the pupils acting as hostesses, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Garner of Hill street, under the oaks on the lawn. The tables were decorated in yellow and white, class colors, and the lawn brilliantly illuminated by electric lights. Artistic place cards with original verses for each pupil and the number of the Parent-Teacher association were the production of Miss Katherine Crews. After dinner Mrs. Minnie Dunn of Tuljunga and Miss Alta Garner of Sunland furnished music.

Walter Gould Lincoln, author of "California Law," will speak at Monte Vista park, Sunland, during the afternoon at the Fourth of July celebration. A number of other interesting features are being arranged for by the program committee.

Dr. Shaw and bride have returned from their honeymoon trip by auto to San Francisco. Mrs. Shaw is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Ritchie of Beaver, Pa., and has been prominent in Hollywood social circles.

Mrs. Homer Hansen of Big Tuljunga canyon was hostess to a number of young people of the Lutheran church of Los Angeles, Saturday, June 13, at Hansen lodge. Those present from the city were Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Canby, Misses Carol and Elizabeth Canby and Alfred Canby.

CHURCH KEEPS PAGE WITH GLENDALE

Growth Of Congregation Is Basis Of Need For New Baptist Edifice

Rev. Ernest E. Ford, prominent in Baptist denominational activities in California, well known local Rotarian, and respected as a loyal Glendale resident, is contemplating with unbounded happiness the approach of the sixth anniversary of his coming to the pulpit of the First Baptist church, for tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock the cornerstone will be laid with impressive ceremony for the new building at East Wilson avenue and North Louise street.

Inspired with the desire to have a Glendale Baptist church, a group of church people assembled on July 5, 1904. From that gathering the First Baptist church grew.

The following November the building committee purchased two lots on the corner of Third and L streets, now Wilson avenue and Louise street, for the sum of $450. With the help of Baptist friends and by their own endeavors sufficient funds were raised to erect a substantial frame building at a cost of $3500.

Most of the work of building material and much of the work of building was donated by the members. Growth of the little church kept step with the development of the little town. Pastors who served were Rev. C. W. Iler, Rev. E. K. Fisher, Rev. W. F. Stone, Rev. J. F. Moody, Rev. Eugene Haines, Rev. John H. Troy, Rev. Vernon H. Cowart.

Outgrew Quarters
It was under the pastorate of Rev. Eugene Haines that the church organization outgrew its quarters and the old church building was sold for $1500 to the Seventh-day Adventists, and a new building was erected at a cost of approximately $11,000.

Marking a new era in spiritual development was the coming of Rev. Ford in July, 1919. At that time there were 250 church members, today there are 320; at that time there were 65 members of the Sunday school, today there are over 700; at that time the total amount for benevolence was $657.24, today a like fund totals $8567.32; at that time the fund for local relief was $3485.46, today the same fund amounts to $9895.56.

During Rev. Ford's pastorate of devoted service 760 new members have been received, 52 by Christian experience, 187 by baptism and 521 by letter. Through his service to his church he has come in contact with hundreds of Glendale residents and visitors, all of whom respect him as minister, friend and citizen.

Three Charter Members
At the ceremony tomorrow there will be three charter members of the church, J. M. Banker, still a resident member, and Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Martin, who reside in Los Angeles, but maintain their membership in the Glendale church.

Dr. W. F. Harper, executive secretary of the Southern California Baptist convention, will give the address, Rev. J. F. Gasser is to give the invocation. Fraternal greetings will be brought by Rev. W. E. Edmonds, president of the Ministerial association, and pastor of Glendale Presbyterian church. A detailed program will be found in the church bulletin, included in the regular church announcements of this edition of The Glendale Evening News.

Tickets Obtained Here By Republican Women
Mrs. Harry Greenwalt is receiving reservations from Glendale women for the luncheon Tuesday at the all-day convention of the Republican Women's Federation of California, southern division, at the Alexandria hotel, Los Angeles.

COMMENT BY GIL A. COWAN

Do you drive an automobile into Los Angeles daily? There are many Glendale residents who do. And if you are one of them, appoint yourself a committee right now to talk with every business man, every civic leader, every public official in the metropolis, to immediately urge the construction of not less than a 100-foot wide paved Glendale boulevard through the Ivanhoe hills section.

A new bridge across the Los Angeles river is to be built, it is understood, but that bridge means nothing if the "neck of the bottle" at the approach to Monte Sano sanitarium is not widened. There are going to be many accidents on the grade and several curves in the two miles of narrow paving between the Los Angeles river and the Edendale business district even before present conditions are remedied.

It's time to move in on the Los Angeles City Council and insist that some action be taken at once. The best way to do that is to make the Los Angeles people cognizant of the facts. Now, everyone, altogether, yell:

"We want a 100-foot pavement from Glendale to Los Angeles."

Hill fires in Griffith park yesterday afternoon looked threatening for a while. They served as advance notices of the care needed these warm days in preventing conflagrations.

You may not know it, but it is NOW against the law to throw any lighted article, such as a match, cigar or cigarette stub, from a moving vehicle. Also, the person who drops a lighted article without seeing that it is extinguished before leaving the spot is culpable. Burning brush without a permit, starting campfires in restricted areas, particularly in county and state and federal preserves, will bring down the law on your head—and fines are going to be stiff this year.

Help prevent fires! It is much easier than fighting them!

Someone said it was warm yesterday. Why, it really wasn't hot. And what a fine sunny day! It made you feel like going swimming, or fishing, or just sitting on your porch and enjoying the opportunity to wear their sleeveless gowns and roll their socks another roll or two lower, we suspect.

At any rate, sunburned skins, er—beg pardon, calves—are in order.

Friends Much Pleased With Pupils' Recital

Miss Bernice Abherilla Seay, Glendale music and dramatic teacher, presented her pupils in recital last night in the recital room of Glendale Music Co., 118 South Brand boulevard. Patrons and friends attending were most complimentary of the work of teachers and pupils.

Taking part in the program were Jerry Aldridge, Lois Merriken, Judith and Isabelle Munson, Leona Colton, Esther Phillips, Emmel Seidenglanz, Florence Sunderland and Gwendolyn Baugh.

A Baldwin piano was furnished through the courtesy of Glendale Music Co.

Realty Brokers Help Employers Find Men

An employment agency is being opened at 700 South Brand boulevard by Wynne & Dunlop, realty brokers. It is announced that this agency will be operated without cost to employers. Positions will be secured for those seeking work at a moderate charge. "We have great faith in Glendale," said Wynne, "and we hope the Glendale public will give us their co-operation."

PERUVIAN NAMED

WASHINGTON, June 20.—President Coolidge has been informed that Manuel D. Sandtander has been named as the Peruvian member of the Tacna-Arica plebiscitary commission, it was announced at the White House.

IMPROVEMENT WORK IN ATWATER HALTED

Glenfeliz Boulevard to Be Torn Up as Outfall Sewer Connecting Link Is Being Constructed for Glendale

With decision of engineers to start construction of the connecting link in the Glendale outfall sewer at the south end and work north, improvement of Glenfeliz boulevard in the Atwater district, main connecting thoroughfare linking Glendale and Los Feliz boulevards, will be held up still further.

First plans of the engineers was to commence the last section of the sewer at Los Feliz boulevard to connect with the section now completed as far as Los Feliz and Glenfeliz intersection. This would have caused the work along Glenfeliz boulevard to be done first and allowed the paving of the street more than a month earlier than will now be possible.

The outfall sewer unit through the Atwater section will run from Los Feliz and Glenfeliz to Holly park and Silverdale boulevard where it will meet the third unit at the banks of the Los Angeles river. Work on the Silverlake end of the line is ready to start immediately.

Permit More Signboards

The erection of additional advertising sign boards along Los Feliz boulevard was sanctioned by the Los Angeles City Council when that body granted permission to the Pacific Sign Co. to install ten more boards along the thoroughfare between the Glendale city limits and the Los Angeles river, it was announced today.

Civic Body Meets Monday

The Atwater Improvement Association will meet Monday night at the Neighborhood Christian church. The program for the year, as outlined by the executive officers of the association will be presented for ratification.

Plans for a membership drive to increase the roster to 1000 members will be discussed by J. J. Hurley, chairman of the membership committee. Twenty-five members of his committee to assist with work of the drive will be appointed by President Arthur M. Gilman.

An official emblem for the Atwater Improvement association will be adopted shortly and all members, particularly business houses, will be urged to display the emblem in a prominent place. In addition large signs will be erected at all entrances to the Atwater district giving the name and extent to the district and the time and place of meetings of the improvement association.

Personals From District

E. L. Munsey and family will occupy the residence at 3401 Larga avenue which they recently purchased from Mrs. S. M. Keyte. Elizabeth M. Grant, formerly in the florist business on Los Feliz boulevard, will leave next week for Camden, N. J., where she will join other members of her family. Mr. Johnson will undergo an operation shortly after arriving in the east.

H. O. Lewis, Atwater contractor, returned yesterday from a ten-day trip to Seattle, Wash. Mrs. J. C. Bernard, Valleybrink road, is rapidly recovering from a recent attack of blood poisoning, which she contracted as a result of a rose thorn scratch. Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Wells will soon occupy their new home on Valleybrink road.

Trip To Eight Worlds Is Made By Hundreds

The Knox tabernacle, Brand boulevard and California avenue, was filled to capacity and hundreds stood around the edges of the big tent last night when Astronomer-Evangelist Knox delivered his opening address on "Wonders of Our Solar System." At the close of the lecture it was announced that tonight the walls of the tent would be lifted and a thousand extra chairs placed just outside to accommodate those who otherwise would be compelled to stand.

In his opening remarks the astronomer-evangelist said: "Every son and daughter of Adam should be interested in the study of the stars. Astronomy is the most interesting and inspiring of all sciences. It elevates and broadens the mind. It rouses and directs the imagination. Best of all it gives man a better and truer idea both of his own painful insignificance and of his Creator's infinite greatness. In giving man a better understanding of God, the science of astronomy finds its true service."

With the aid of actual photographs of other worlds, he took his audience with him on a celestial sight-seeing trip across the solar system, pointing out the things of special interest on each of the eight worlds which revolve around our sun. The subject of the lecture tonight is "Seeing God's Universe Through Powerful Telescopes."

In announcing it Mr. Knox said: "It will be illustrated with the latest and most beautiful pictures from the world's largest telescope."

RUSH WORK ON IMPROVING ESTATES

Contractor Daily Installs 1000 Feet Of Curbing; Other Work Pushed

Improvement work on streets and curbs at Oakmont Country Club Estates, in Sparr Heights, is being pushed as rapidly as possible, according to Melancthon Walters, subdivider and developer of the tract. Peter L. Ferry, Glendale contractor, who was awarded the contract on the improvement work, is installing upwards to 1000 feet of curbing daily.

It is the plan of Mr. Walters to have all the improvements in before the estates are offered for sale, although Mr. Walters announces that prospective purchasers can make selections even at this time.

Mr. Walters has designated June 28 as the day when Glendallians will be invited to inspect the Oakmont Country Club Estates. In honor of the occasion, Mr. Walters is planning a special buffet tea at the Oakmont Country Club. Detailed announcement of this event will be made next week.

Names Salesmanager

V. R. Stemm has been named by Mr. Walters as salesmanager for the tract. Mr. Stemm is well known in Glendale and has had considerable experience with tracts similar to the one being prepared by Mr. Walters. The new salesmanager is organizing a sales force of men who are experts in their line, and who have devoted their time to subdivisions, such as Oakmont Country Club Estates, where individuality of each tract is a distinctive feature.

Particular stress is being laid by Mr. Walters in preserving the natural sylvan beauty of Oakmont Country Club Estates. Large retaining walls are being constructed on hillside roads, rather than make enlarged cuts, which would mean the destroying of hundreds of trees.

Another feature of Oakmont Country Club Estates will be the numerous bird trails that will traverse the tract, linking up Flintridge and the route to the sea. Easy, winding grades on all roads will add not only to the picturesqueness of the estates, but to the accessibility of every tract, Mr. Walters said.

HOSTESS ON MONDAY

Mrs. George Bigelow of 1351 North Columbus avenue, will be hostess Monday morning at 11 o'clock to members of the Foot-hill section of women of First Congregational church.

CENSORS OF 1935 PASSED HIS TALK

John W. Cotton Steps Into Future For Part In Art Association Stunt

The Glendale Art association closed activities for the season with an enjoyable "hi-jinks" party last night at the Van Grove studio, 337 North Brand boulevard. Original stunts were the order of the evening following a short business meeting, with Mrs. Roy A. Ballagh, president, in the chair. She presented the association with a press book for a publicity record of the coming year.

E. Franquinet, Belgian artist, in a costume of a 14-year-old youngster, with a red wig, put on a clever school examination stunt, answering imaginary questions with laughable results, demonstrating that it "pays to be an artist." He also drew a crayon sketch of a California sunset and a crayon portrait of J. W. Cotton, which were auctioned off later in the program.

Miss Mabel Capell, a new member of the association, sang two beautiful numbers, one an Irish melody, John W. Cotton, in a costume of a period "ten years hence," gave a reading that was said to have been passed by the board of censors of 1935.

Glendale Broadcasts

Mrs. James F. Armstrong put on a radio stunt, broadcasting from Station BVD, Glendale, Cal., the fastest growing city of America, located near the green Verdugo Hills." After announcing a new song, never before heard over the radio, she sang, with ukulele accompaniment, "Who's Taking Care of the Caretaker's Daughter?" with original verses in parody on various members of the association. Music numbers on the Knabe Ampico closed the program.

The president voiced her thanks to the committee in charge of the recent concert arrangements and the association adjourned for the summer. Refreshments of cake and punch were served.

NEW FORD AGENCY WILL GIVE DANCE

Public Is Invited To Huge Opening Staged In Auto Firm's Show Rooms

In order to become better acquainted with the public of Glendale and so that the public may become better acquainted with them, Campbell-Land-Pearson, Inc., new Glendale Ford dealers, will stage a huge opening dance in their spacious display rooms at 1800 South San Fernando road, corner of Brand boulevard, on Saturday night, July 11.

All Land member of the firm, today issued a cordial invitation to all Glendallians to attend the dance and have a good time. For those who do not dance, there will be musical entertainment provided by Starr Russell, "the blue streak of radio," and Madeline Hardy, "the radio girl."

Dancing will start at 8 o'clock and last until midnight. The famous Lincoln Eight jazz band will furnish the music for dancing.

Speaking of business conditions, Mr. Land declared that, because of their liberal terms and trades, the Campbell-Land-Pearson organization is enjoying a larger volume of business for June than that attained a year ago.

"People of Glendale and the valley cities are realizing that it pays to give us a chance to bid when they are in the market for a Ford car or repairs," Mr. Land said. "We are able to arrange satisfactory terms for every customer and to supply all his needs, whatever they may be."

Pacific P-T. A. Pleased By Courtesy Of News

An expression of appreciation for publicity given comes from the Pacific Parent-Teacher association through Mrs. Kate B. Prikett, chairman of publicity. She writes: "I wish to express thanks and appreciation, personally and in behalf of the Pacific Parent-Teacher association, for the courtesy and publicity given us the past year in your paper."

P-T-A

Acacia
Closing activities for Acacia Mothers' club, P-T. A., was the annual luncheon for teachers of Acacia school, yesterday, in the social hall of the Congregational church. Sixteen teachers and fifty-four members of the P-T. A. were present. Richardson D. White, city superintendent of schools, and Rev. C. M. Calderwood, pastor of the church, were guests. Mr. Calderwood gave the invocation and Mr. White spoke.

Shasta daisies and larkspur were used for decorations of the table. Corsage bouquets of roses were gifts for the teachers. Mrs. R. N. Stryker, president of the association, was toastmistress. A unique surprise for members of the association was the history of Acacia school arranged in rhyme and given by Miss May Cornwell and Mrs. Luella Bullis, the first two teachers of the school, assisted by other teachers in the order in which they joined the faculty. Each teacher told her name and the year which she had started teaching. An Acacia school yell was given by the teachers for the P-T. A. and for Miss May Cornwell, principal. Mrs. M. E. Canfield entertained with humorous readings, and the P-T. A. song was sung with Mrs. Ed Evans as accompanist. Mrs. Stryker, on behalf of the association, presented P-T. A. pins to Miss Cornwell and Mrs. Hopkins as rewards for the cook books sold. Mrs. Edward Strong, on behalf of the association, presented Mrs. Stryker with a past president's pin and also a bouquet of roses. Mrs. Edward Baldwin, president of Acacia Kindergarten club, was presented with a P-T. A. pin and a bouquet of roses from the club, the presentation being made by Miss Ledyard, teacher of the kindergarten. After the luncheon a social time was enjoyed.

Water Shortage
"Unless a reorganization is effected within from two to three years adequate development of water cannot be guaranteed by the directors of the company to keep pace with the growth of the community on account of limited finances," said Scully.

While some portions of La Crescenta have adequate water mains at the present time, it is pointed out that in some of the new subdivisions only three-quarter-inch mains are provided for supplying water to fire hydrants. In a recent fire a two-story residence was destroyed because of the inability of fire fighters to get enough water through the fire hose to make an impression on the flames.

"Creation of a water district would be for the purpose of bonding and development of an adequate water system, and not for profit, it was pointed out today by H. N. Fowler, president of the Verdugo City Chamber of Commerce, who will preside at Monday night's session.

Church Board Officer To Speak At Tropico

Rev. Guy Wadsworth, executive secretary of the Board of Church Extension of the Los Angeles presbytery, will speak Sunday morning at Tropico Presbyterian church. At night Mr. Babcock, Mr. Wadsworth's assistant, will preach. Other services will be as usual.

Miss Marie June Jones, a resident of Glendale, will appear in the leading feminine role in "Ice-bound," the first offering of the Lexington Players who open Monday night for one week at the playhouse, North Central avenue and West Lexington drive. Miss Jones has appeared on the stage in Los Angeles and Seattle.

VOLUME XX NUMBER 254

Daily Greeting to News Readers

WOE UNTO—

The man who thinks God is not watching him.
The woman who distributes her choicest favors too widely.
The youth who has never learned from old age.
The boy who thinks his troubles all arise from cranky teachers.
The girl who comes to know more than her mother.
The friend who thinks friendship must be proved by constant candor.

TO WALK OR TO RIDE?

By the use of an automobile a man can do much more in a day than he could without one, but it is by no means certain that he can do more in a lifetime, says an editorial writer. A man on foot gets over a lot of ground, he sees a great deal while he plods that the man who whizzes by in a car necessarily misses, and he gets healthful exercise. Many a man and woman who live in an automobile wonder why they are growing old and losing their health.

The man who walks doesn't have to worry about blow-outs, and knocks in the motor, but the mental relaxation this affords him is offset by having to jump out of the way of those who are driving, but here again the exercise is beneficial—if he escapes. The walker's worst troubles are his corns, and he can trim them, which is more than the automobile owner can do with his gasoline and repair bills.

There is much to be said in favor of walking, but be that as it may, the average American will almost sell his soul for an automobile. He is more than willing to take a chance on losing his health, killing himself or someone else and bankrupting himself in the bargain.

It has come to the point where those who drive look with pity and disdain upon those who walk or patronize the street cars, wondering what manner of people they can be who do not own or use a car. So, many timid souls who otherwise would be content to walk, mortgage their homes in order not to be considered outcasts of society.

However, it must be a sign of intelligence to own a car, for the automobile is more popular on the Pacific coast than in the cotton states along the Atlantic seaboard. There are 15,522,077 automobiles now in use in the United States, according to official statistics, and to one who is waiting to cross a boulevard the number seems very conservative.

LOVE, HONOR AND—

Modern brides are demanding that the word "obey" be omitted from the marriage ceremony. It makes little difference whether it is repeated by the bride or not; it has little significance. For one reason, man today does not regard his wife as a chattel. The judge in one of England's recent famous cases declared that:

"It is silly nowadays to say that husbands have authority over their wives like the old days when the great lawyer, Selden, held that a man who keeps a wife is the same as a man who keeps a monkey—responsible for its mischief."

Some women in the United States are trying to remove what they consider female disabilities in some of the states by constitutional amendment. If complete equality of sexes were established by law it would be the man who would be emancipated from obligations which do not bind the woman. Complete equality would assume that a woman wanting a divorce was just as able to support herself as a man. Though the English judge rules that the wife is no longer a monkey for whose acts the husband is responsible, yet the law pins many of her acts on him, however much he has lost the ability to control them.

The ideal marriage is not dependent upon the words used or omitted from the ceremony. And laws governing marriage do not generally affect a community, because most people do not need them.

LOWER DEATH RATE

It is claimed by Dr. William H. Guilfoyle, who has been registrar of the New York health department for forty years, that he has seen the death rate in that city drop from 25 per thousand to 11.6 per thousand annually. As far as we can see, people are dying as young as ever and deaths seem as frequent as ever, but figures like the above speak for themselves and they summarize what has been done in forty years to extend the average length of life.

Great progress has been made in education in the care of infants and infant mortality has been greatly reduced as a consequence. A general advance has also been made along the lines of sanitation, hygiene and nutrition. Of course, the loaded gun and the automobile, used as a weapon, have done much to counteract the advance of medical science in the way of prolonging human life.

COMPARISONS NOT ODIOSUS TO US

The extremes of weather being experienced in the east and middle west and the storms that have caused destruction and death are California's best advertisement, especially for the Shriners and other tourists who witnessed our dismay and discomfort at a gentle, refreshing rain. Even if Southern California had all the things the matter with it that has been said about it in the east the last year or two, it would still be the best place in the world to live. We are perfectly willing to have our climate, our scenery and our living conditions compared with those of any state in the union.

INTEREST IN FIGHT

Whatever our interest in the outcome of the Tennessee controversy over the Darwinian theory, it is not so much the search for truth that holds our attention as it is the struggle. We must admit that human nature likes a fight and the spectacle of the world's greatest Chautauqua orator and the world's greatest criminal lawyer in a clash of wills and opinions is going to be interesting. The trial is to be staged, it is said, in a baseball park where 20,000 can find seating accommodations and hear the evidence. It is predicted that this trial will put Dayton, Tenn., as definitely on the map as Shelby, Mont.

Very often the man who kicks on giving the milkman 14 cents a quart will pay $10 a quart to the bootlegger and think that the bootlegger is doing him a favor.

An insurance expert declares that most of the homes being erected now are very poorly built. But it doesn't make much difference, as nobody stays in 'em anyhow.

THE GRASSHOPPER AND THE ANT

Over the Fence Is Out

By DR. FRANK CRANE

When you knock a ball over the fence in baseball you are out.

There are certain bounds or rules that enclose every game. You must keep inside of those bounds. If you do not, you stop the game.

If you try to move a pawn as you would a knight in chess nobody can play chess with you. If you jump a piece clear across the checker board with reference to open space the checker game is all over. You must keep the rules or you cannot play.

Life is a game. It has certain rules, and unless you obey them you are not in it.

For instance, Chapman displayed a good deal of versatility, but he insisted on playing after his ball was over the fence. He did not keep the rules, and the first thing he knew he was out.

There are certain bounds of health that surrounds us. We must eat certain things and do certain other things. If we violate those rules we become diseased.

Babe Ruth the other day was taken sick because he had eaten something wrong or committed some other discretion. He has knocked his ball over the fence and nature put him out.

There is a good deal of satisfaction to be got from dope or from alcohol, but the trouble is they are not inside of the rules of nature's teachings. She has certain joys and satisfactions for us that can be found by eating and drinking the proper things. We can get other joys from eating and drinking what we should not, but if we indulge in them, the first thing we know we are out.

Marcus Aurelius said: "Nature has fixed bounds. She has fixed bounds to eating and drinking, and yet thou goest beyond these bounds."

There are those who expect prosperity by cheating. When you cheat you fool only yourself. Telling the truth and doing the right thing are not only commendable because they are moral and inculcated by religion, but they are essentially playing the game. They are observing the rules as laid down by the experience of the world.

Doc Cook thought he could fool the world. When he had knocked the ball over the fence by sending in crooked reports from the North pole, he kept on running. A while the world gaped at him, but it soon realized that he was only making a fool of himself. He has now wandered into the penitentiary.

The Best of Advice

By CLARK KINNAIRD

It is said we can build no superstructure without a foundation of unshakable principles.

There are no such principles, Samuel Butler held.

"If there be any," he said, "they are beyond our reach. We cannot fathom them; therefore, they have no existence."

"There is one thing certain, namely, that we can have nothing certain, therefore it is not certain that we have nothing certain."

"We are as men who will insist on looking over the brink of a precipice; some few can gaze into the abyss below without losing their heads, but most men will grow dizzy and fall."

"The thing to do is to gaze on the chaos on which our thoughts are founded, recognize that it is a chaos and that, in the nature of things, no theoretically firm ground is even conceivable."

Even Euclid, it is observed, cannot lay a demonstrable premise. He requires postulates and axioms which transcend demonstration and without which he can do nothing.

His superstructure is demonstration, his ground is faith.

Faith. This is the biggest element in what we fondly call Truth.

Faith and authority are as necessary for Euclid as for any one else.

There is nothing one cannot wrangle about.

Sensible people will agree to a middle course founded upon a few general axioms and propositions about which, right or wrong, they will not think it worth while to wrangle for some time, and those who reject these can be put into prisons and madhouses, according to present practice.

The middle way may be as full of hidden rocks as the other ways are of manifest ones, but it is the pleasantest while we can keep to it and the dangers, being hidden, are less alarming.

In practice it is seldom very hard to do one's duty when one knows what it is, but it is sometimes exceedingly difficult to find this out.

The difficulty is, however, often reducible into that of knowing what gives one pleasure, and this, though difficult, is a safer guide and more easily distinguished.

"In all cases of doubt," Samuel Butler opined, "the promptings of a kindly disposition are more trustworthy than the conclusions of logic, and sense is better than science."

Who's Who

President Thomas G. Masaryk of Czechoslovakia in an interview given shortly after the recent observance of his 75th birthday, expressed satisfaction at the course of European events and described America as "moving nearer to Europe."

Answering a question regarding the general situation of Europe today, as compared with the conditions of previous months, President Masaryk said:

"I see considerable improvement everywhere in Europe, both economically and politically. There is still a certain measure of unrest here and there, but Europe is consolidating. Relations between Germany and France are also better now, and that is an important item."

"It seems to me that America is moving nearer to Europe. I am very glad of it. America is such a great factor for mankind. It is regrettable that the United States is staying apart and isolated. America may not agree with the politics of Europe, but America has a moral duty toward the rest of the world. America is the greatest nation in the world today. Only China is greater in numbers. Russia is composed of a large variety of nations, and is thereby weakened. America has a compact population of 110,000,000—one language, one nation, one great state."

"It is democratic, a free state. No soldiers, no interference by the church. America has a great duty to perform. I do not refer to politics. I may not agree with your politics and you may not agree with ours. But America is in position to promote the organization of mankind instead of remaining isolated. This moral sense must bring you closer to Europe. It is not a question of American dollars. I know that money is needed in Europe, but money is not the savior of mankind. I like to have as much as I can, but I do not believe in it as a savior of anything or of anybody."

OCEAN BATHING
Mrs. H.—If you find you do not react well after a daily ocean plunge, you had better omit it until you get yourself in better health.

You did not state your weight but I imagine you are underweight. Do you know how to gain? We have instructions which have been warmly endorsed. You may have them by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope with ten cents in stamps to partially cover the cost of printing and handling.

INSANITY

No doubt there are forms of insanity that seem to be inherited, but there are many forms due to physical causes that are remediable. We now recognize that insanity is a sickness of the nervous system and is often remediable the same as a sickness of any other part of the system.

The woman you speak of who has such a large fortune but is so parsimonious that she does not eat enough, may be mentally unstable from chronic starvation.

ASTHMA

Mrs. S.—Asthma may be due to a hypersensitiveness to certain proteins, either through eating or through inhaling them. The inhaled proteins come from pollens or from the fine particles given off by cats, dogs and other animals, and feather pillows, rabbits, and even sometimes from woolen garments. Indiscretions in diet, especially overeating, will often bring on attacks.

Special breathing exercises, proper diet, sun and fresh air, tonic baths, and, in fact, all the measures for building up the general health, have to be practiced, in getting rid of any disease. Change of climate is not always necessary and it will probably not be effective if the original cause of the disorder still operates. Have you had a thorough physical examination?

"Dear Doctor:—I can recommend your reducing instructions—which the fearful price of ten cents in stamps and self-addressed, stamped envelope brought me—by a loss of nearly 50 pounds! I don't look old or wrinkled or ugly, and I am 43. Even if I did, the inclination and ability to go upstairs two steps at a time, would overbalance the three of 'em."

I enjoy studying the various housewives of my acquaintance and noting how they differ—how some of them have applied originality to one branch of their work and others to another branch.

Mrs. X, for instance, has developed a reputation for creating unusual little luncheon dishes. Mrs. Y, on the other hand, is noted for her cleverness in making up new knitting stitches. And Mrs. Z's "knack" for interior decoration is the property of the entire community.

Personally, I do not believe that there is much importance in the way the face is massaged. I think all the importance lies in the mere fact that it is massaged, assuming that there are wrinkles or any skin troubles that can be helped by stimulating the circulation of the blood. There are hundreds of massage methods. I have watched at least a dozen of them being expounded and demonstrated, and I've found that one is just as good as another. You must learn certain principles, but that is easy.

The first principle is to never pull downward on the face. All motions should lift the muscles of the cheeks. All motions should be gentle, yet firm enough to be stimulating. All massage should begin by relaxing the skin with heat. The massage should last long enough to allow time for working quite a little cream into the skin and to make it feel warm and glowing. The massage should always end with a fairly strong astringent to close the pores.

There is one method used in several massage systems which I think is valuable. When massaging to eliminate sagging muscles around the mouth do not use a massage stroke that pushes the skin towards the eyes and ears, as this might intensify the crow's feet around the eyes. Instead, cover the lower part of the face thickly with cream, pucker the mouth tightly together and blow out the cheeks just as though you intended to blow out a candle. Then tap the skin briskly all around the mouth with the tips of the fingers until you feel the stimulation of this type of massage.

Always massage across any deep wrinkle between the eyes, and always massage the wrinkles

MESSAGE DIRECTIONS

Personally, I do not believe that there is much importance in the way the face is massaged. I think all the importance lies in the mere fact that it is massaged, assuming that there are wrinkles or any skin troubles that can be helped by stimulating the circulation of the blood. There are hundreds of massage methods. I have watched at least a dozen of them being expounded and demonstrated, and I've found that one is just as good as another. You must learn certain principles, but that is easy.

The first principle is to never pull downward on the face. All motions should lift the muscles of the cheeks. All motions should be gentle, yet firm enough to be stimulating. All massage should begin by relaxing the skin with heat. The massage should last long enough to allow time for working quite a little cream into the skin and to make it feel warm and glowing. The massage should always end with a fairly strong astringent to close the pores.

There is one method used in several massage systems which I think is valuable. When massaging to eliminate sagging muscles around the mouth do not use a massage stroke that pushes the skin towards the eyes and ears, as this might intensify the crow's feet around the eyes. Instead, cover the lower part of the face thickly with cream, pucker the mouth tightly together and blow out the cheeks just as though you intended to blow out a candle. Then tap the skin briskly all around the mouth with the tips of the fingers until you feel the stimulation of this type of massage.

Always massage across any deep wrinkle between the eyes, and always massage the wrinkles

GLENDALE, LOS ANGELES COUNTY, CALIFORNIA SATURDAY, JUNE 20, 1925

RISE OF RENT IS STOPPED IN NATION

Report Shows Level Struck In Large Percentage Of Cities Of Country

By J. C. ROYLE

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925
NEW YORK, June 20.—Tenants in most cities now can face a landlord without the expectation that the latter will raise the rent. Residential rentals in a large proportion of American cities have settled to a stationary and stable basis. Of 225 cities canvassed by the National Association of Real Estate boards, seventy-two per cent report a stationary level, twenty per cent show a trend downward and only eight per cent report an increase. A downward tendency is especially noticeable in the larger centers.

Experts declare that the latter fact is due largely to the exodus from the cities proper to suburban districts. The army of commuters is growing steadily.

Cities are spreading out to all intents and purposes into areas five or six times as large as those occupied by communities of equal population twenty-five years ago. Experts of the department of agriculture of the Rockefeller foundation who have made surveys of the cities, estimate the latter will have to add 10,000,000 acres to their urban area in the next ten years to meet the requirements of the movement to the suburbs.

The period of rural expansion in the United States was followed by a time of rapid concentration of population in the cities. Over 6,500,000 have left the rural districts for the cities in the last ten years but there has been a counter movement which has carried over 2,000,000 people beyond the city boundaries into the areas where city and country meet.

Within commuting distance of the large cities there now is a population equal to about half of the cities proper. In fact, a dozen big centers have more people on their outskirts than within their limits. All this has tended to cause a reduction of rentals in the cities proper and the movement has been augmented by the fact that the post-war building shortage in the cities rapidly is disappearing.

Some House Shortage
Only thirty-two per cent of the cities of the country report a shortage of dwellings while over twenty-five per cent announce over-building in some form. There has been little uniformity in the rent decreases. The central eastern section of the country probably has given most conclusive evidence of reductions. In this area rents have advanced only for single family dwellings, while the reductions in apartment buildings have been widespread.

The southeastern section is the only one where rising rents predominate. Fifty per cent of the cities there report advances in single family dwellings and only seven per cent show a downward tendency.

Rents Are Lower
The move to the suburban towns is easily explained when it is realized that rents in large cities average in general twice those charged in the small towns. Dwellings in the best locations of cities under 25,000 population rent in general at the rate of $10 a month, whereas in cities of over 500,000 the charge is approximately $20 a month. The middle class one-family dwelling shows a lower variation, the cost in the smaller towns being around $7.50 a month per month and in the big cities $10 per month.

The rents seem to rise in some types of dwellings directly with population. For two-family dwellings of the middle class in moderate locations, the rent in cities under 25,000 is approximately $7 a month. In cities of the group up to 100,000 population, the average is $8. For centers of 100,000 to 200,000 inhabitants, the average runs up to $9 and for those above 500,000 to $10. Above 500,000 the price shoots up to $15 a month.

Multi-family apartments show an even wider range for the rent in fine locations in the smaller cities to $35 in the big towns. For cheap apartments the range is from $5 to $15 a month.

Recreational Development In Southland

Mountains And Beaches Get Many New Projects; Big Aid To Prosperity

By GIL A. COWAN
For Southland News Service.
LOS ANGELES, June 20.—

Facts concerning the industrial basis for Southern California's prosperity have been widely broadcast; the building records of Southland cities, including stores, offices, churches, schools and theatres, have been subject of much favorable comment; but there still remains another angle which has been lightly dwelt upon by writers of the wonders of this Pacific empire.

Millions of dollars are being spent in recreational facilities, which blossom with the completion of every new highway, as well as the development of the country and the increased population. The fact that there is no one outstanding development, but dozens of a major scale which would by the cynosure of any middle western community, gives some idea of the magnitude on which this section is building for its future tourist trade, as well as vacation land for permanent residents.

Great Development
Eliminating the real estate promotions—and there are literally scores of mountain parks and beaches, all with exceptional merit—the summary of Southland News Service correspondents reveals two new mountain hotel projects, one at Arrowhead, involving an immediate investment of $1,000,000; three new hot springs resorts in the San Jacinto and San Diego mountains; four new golf clubs in the course of development, with formal opening this season; one new riding club completed and another organizing; two new bath houses in San Diego county, three in Orange county, and two swimming clubs in Los Angeles county, not to mention several yacht club improvements, as well as a constant investment in Catalina island on the part of William Wrigley.

Parks and Playgrounds
Counties also are developing public parks and playgrounds, Los Angeles having two under way. Orange seeking one at the present time, and Santa Barbara also developing a federal tract. San Bernardino and Riverside cities are spending much money in playground development outside of their immediate residential section. None of these are designed to produce revenue, but simply to make a more attractive nearby recreation resort, available to all of the people.

Santa Monica bay district, as well as Long Beach, Ventura, Redondo Beach, Huntington Beach and Newport Beach are laying plans for the preservation of the strand for bathers. Los Angeles city is bending every effort to make the Owens river valley a great hunting and fishing country in order to make amends for having taken the water from the tillable acreage there. Tulare and Fresno counties are capitalizing their eastern mountainsides, with Balch park, General Grant park, Roosevelt park and Huntington lake listed as attractions for those who would see more than Yosemite in Central California.

Offers Donation
To give impetus for the improvement of Santa Barbara as a yachtsman's paradise, the "round, Herbert Fleischmann, millionaire yeast manufacturer, has offered a donation of $200,000 to the city if it carries out a comprehensive program.

It would be impossible to give a total of these investments, for they involve intangible things, such as natural endowments, which cannot be figured in dollars, but it is safe to say that $10,000,000 is being spent this year in Southern California for the public's benefit in recreational facilities.

Postmen Plan Outing For Independence Day

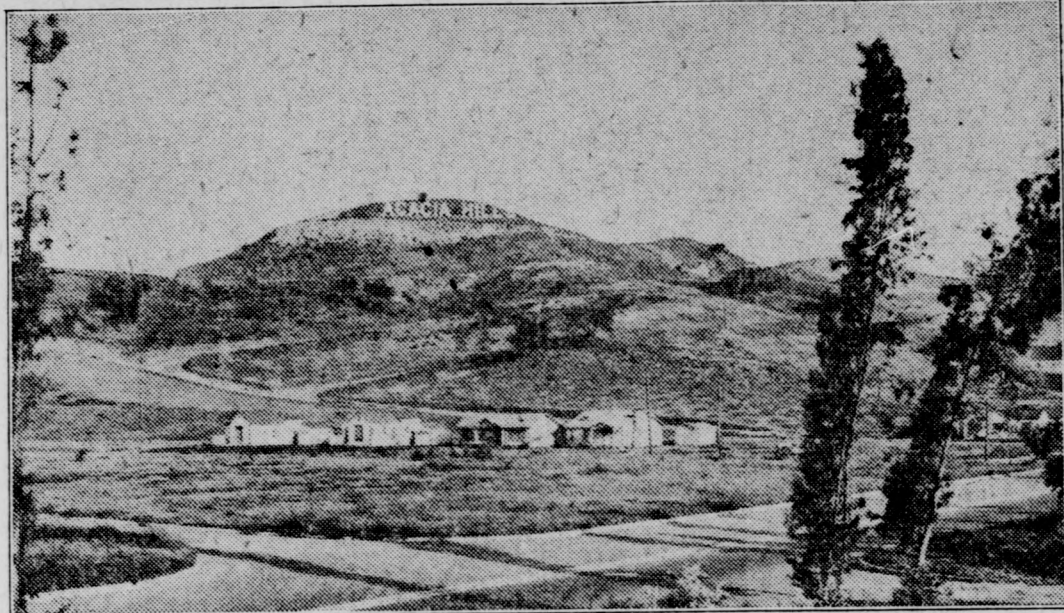

Letter carriers of Glendale will join with postmen of Los Angeles and Alhambra in their annual picnic to be held at Echo park, Los Angeles, on July 4. Funds raised through the picnic will be used to send delegates to the national convention of letter carriers at Detroit on Labor Day and to augment the sick and relief fund of the postal employees.

There will be band concerts by the Los Angeles postal band which includes six Glendale carriers. Dancing and athletic events will be other features. A basket lunch will be served at noon. The general public of Glendale is today invited to attend the picnic by V. H. Hoyer and F. C. Davis, officers of the local carriers organization.

Winding Drives Are Shown

The easy grades of ACACIA HILLS, winding in and out gracefully and with wide sweeps, make this popular subdivision an attractive spot. Added to the natural beauty of the tract is the fact that unsightly flat roofs are forbidden on proposed houses, and that an idea of individuality in construction is carried out.

Attractiveness Of Hillside Subdivision Preserved By Restrictions

Students of home building find an interesting study in the two photographs of Acacia Hills reproduced above. These photographs show the easy grades of the drives which follow the contours of the hills.

A study of the tract, on the ground, emphasizes the care that has been taken in laying out the lots. All the lots are wide, very materially assisting the planning of beautiful hillside homes where width is so essential.

No two lots are alike in shape, size and contour. Each lot calls for a house specially designed to take full advantage of its many good points. It is not practicable to build on these hillside lots the stereotyped styles of houses so much duplicated in level tracts.

This fact alone greatly enhances the value of these home sites to the true home builder, for they know every house on Acacia Hills will have individuality and the tract will have variety. There will be no monotony of duplicated dwellings all down the street.

Added to this natural protection are the tract restrictions which do not permit too small dwellings and wisely forbid flat roofs in Acacia Hills.

Mayor MacBain Opens Merchants' Exposition

The Merchants' exposition, staged in the big tent at Brand boulevard and Lexington drive under the auspices of Glendale post, No. 127, American Legion, opens tonight at 7 o'clock. Local merchants have taken considerable space in the tent in which to display merchandise, while the food exposition is one of the features of the occasion. In connection with the exposition, which will be presented every night except Sunday until June 27, will be an entertainment program. Tonight's entertainment program will be presented by Hugo Hamlin's Juveniles, with Ted Campbell and his Jewel City jazz orchestra furnishing the music.

Realtor Test Brings Forth Weird Ideas

Every State Real Estate department which gives a test to applicants for a broker's license to determine their understanding of the ordinary instruments which they propose to draft for their prospective clients has begun to accumulate examples of remarkable real estate definitions, much as every class room teacher gathers a corresponding stock of curious replies to his examination papers.

Here are some of the California Real Estate department's choicest, according to a bulletin issued by the California Real Estate association news department:

Needless to say, the applicants who made the following answers were NOT recommended to the real estate commissioner for license.

"WHAT IS A CONVEYANCE?"

"A conveyance is a vehicle used by the realty men to take sales prospects to their property."

"WHAT IS A DEED?"
"A deed is a paper one gets when he makes his first payment upon a piece of property."

"WHAT IS A CONTRACT?"

"A contract is an instrument given to the purchaser after the final payment is made on property."

"IS AN ORAL CONTRACT BINDING?"

"Not unless it is put in writing."

MAKE ORANGE CAKES

PEKING, June 20.—Growth of the orange cake industry is reported from Foochow, where a large portion of the orange crop is made into cakes and exported to other provinces in a dried state, chiefly for medicinal purposes. Fifteen factories are employed in Foochow converting the fresh oranges into cake form, which is then coated with oil and dried.

SELL MORE AUTO PARTS

CLEVELAND, Ohio, June 20.—The National Acme Co., maker of auto parts and automatic stamping machines, reports that orders on hand total $1,594,669, or 30 per cent more than at this time last year. It booked $25,000 worth of business the first four days of June.

REALTY SALES AFFECTED BY NEW LAW

Amendments Operative In Future To Classify All Real Estate Aides

The new amendments to the state real estate license act will be effective ninety days after they were signed. This will make the date for the law to go into operation about August 29.

The governor signed the bill by Senator A. H. Reed, realtor, of Oakland, providing for the bringing of the business chance brokers and all solicitors of prospects for a realty deal under the act. In other words, says the California Real Estate association, all persons who in any way contribute to the sale or transfer of real estate, as defined by the original law, are now to be made amenable to its provisions.

Affects Lease Work
Thus, in the great cities those who negotiate the sale or exchange of leases, such as apartment houses, rooming houses, hotels, stores and the like must now have real estate broker's or salesman's licenses.

Also, any person who shall list or solicit for the purpose of selling real estate, viz., the solicitors for subdivision buses, or anyone who participates in a realty deal, shall be deemed a realty salesman, within the meaning of the act.

Another amendment provided for the minimum penalty is a jail sentence and fine, instead of a prison term and a fine.

All three of these amendments were approved by the state association's legislative committee and also by the real estate department.

Utilization Of Waste Space Is Modern Architect's Serious Problem

By ALLEN RUOFF
Architect, Ruoff & Munson

A remarkable advance in the standard of our domestic architecture has taken place during the last decade and may be largely attributed to the fascination an architect finds in solving the various problems pertaining to residences, combined with a growing interest and keener appreciation of beauty on the part of the layman. The possibility of direct interpretation of the client's taste and mode of social life is very definite in the city dwelling, and offers a greater opportunity for diversity of treatment than does any other type of building problem the architect is called upon to solve.

In these days of national economy, the utilization of waste space has the appeal of the efficient. It is easy enough to proclaim that there ought to be no waste spaces, but let any one try to build a house without them! If you carefully watch your building in the process of construction, you may discover your carpenter ceiling up all sorts of under-the-eave spaces, between-wall jogs and attractive little poke-holes that might, with some ingenuity, be used to great advantage.

It is nearly always too late, as the nails are going in, to make the most of these discoveries, but earlier in the construction a systematic examination of your house with the architect might be well worth while in ultimate satisfaction.

The man of the house rarely concerns himself with closets, until inconvenience brings him face to face with the lack of them. The woman of the house nearly always makes an instant appraisal of the closet space of a prospective home. The wise architect avoids cutting into his big spaces and cluttering his house with strange passageways and interfering doors. He knows that there must be closets, but he tucks them away in the least obstructive corners.

It is of particular interest, therefore, to note from the accompanying illustration how the architect has planned and designed this small house of today, by using all the space possible to the best advantage. He has very carefully arranged to have sufficient closets and still not crowd the size of the rooms to which they are to serve. The kitchen and screened porch need their share of closets and cupboards, and nothing is more alluring than the quaint little breakfast nook so carefully tucked away in one corner of the kitchen. Since these are not to be picked up out of their proper environment every day, they are often built in kitchen corners that are extremely useful and to utilize them means space economy.

This house can be built for about $6500.

Another Narrow Lot Home Designed

STYLE 905—A large home for a narrow lot was the idea in creating this design. The home is 28 feet wide yet the rooms are large and there is an enclosed patio that gives privacy to the structure. The cost of building this home complete is less than $9,000, according to the designer, Pacific Ready-Cut Homes, Inc.

Cheap Homes Often Prove Most Costly

If you decide to build your new home on the policy, "it is not what you pay, but what you get for what you pay," you have started a thrift and money-saving campaign. This may suggest a need for unlimited money, but such is not the case if you consider carefully what you are doing and realize fully what an important step you are taking in building a home of your own.

Just what is meant by such a policy? Let us take, for example, two completed new homes ready to live in, both practically the same size, style, equipment and conveniences. One may cost $8,000, the other $7,000. Because of the $1,000 difference, you may say the $8,000 home is "high priced." In the end, however, the $7,000 home may prove to be the more expensive, due to cheap workmanship, poor construction, improper use of materials, and the need for constant repair. In other words, the $7,000 home may really be the high priced one.

If anything goes wrong, if the plumbing, heating or piping fails, the makers of quality materials are ready to stand back of their products. Their reputation is at stake. True economy in home building means getting full value for each dollar. Quality materials will give you service, and service means value.

But the soundest way to cut costs and practice true economy is to eliminate those things which are not for the immediate present absolutely necessary. To do this you must plan your home so as to give you maximum comfort within minimum space and build it from materials that are sound in every sense of the word, but which are not extravagantly fine. You must reduce the equipment of your home so that you can meet your home-building budget.

If you can think of your home building as a program which you work out from time to time as you can afford it, you will be able to realize in the end a much more satisfactory house than you can probably afford to build at the present and you will have, through the use of sound materials and good planning, a well-designed home that will not deteriorate rapidly.

NEW BUSINESS DRAWN TO GLENDALE

Influx Of Home Seekers Is Result Of Outlook In General Conditions

A new influx of homeseekers and businessmen into Glendale was predicted today by Chamber of Commerce officials, merchants of the city and heads of the Glendale Realty board.

During the past fifteen days the number of newcomers in Glendale has increased amazingly, according to checks made by various public organizations. Inquiries for business locations have been more numerous during June to date than for any other similar period in a year. Secretary Wood declared at Chamber of Commerce headquarters.

Many Attracted

Business men from other parts of Southern California and from the east have said that prospects are brighter in Glendale than in any other city of the west, Wood declared, and for this reason are seeking to establish themselves here. Advertisements placed by the Glendale chamber in metropolitan newspapers during the past week have brought a record number of inquiries, he said.

C. J. Hatz, president of the Glendale Merchants' association, said activity in business lines throughout the city is on the increase. Reports made to the offices of the Merchants' association in the Monarch building, brought out this fact, he stated.

Restaurant and cafe owners of Glendale have reported a big increase in business for June, in many instances showing a larger volume of trade than for any other month of 1923. Secretary Wood declared. The cafemen said the increase in trade is brought about by the added number of newcomers.

D. C. Casselman, secretary of the Glendale Realty board, said realtors hold high hopes for the summer and fall months. Indications are the best in a long time, he said, and realty firms of the city are preparing for a record business.

WINS SCULLING CUP

NEW HAVEN, June 20.—Alfred D. Lindley, of Minneapolis, is Yale's champion sculler for 1923, and as such he has won the Goethius Sculling Cup. Walter A. Burke, Jr., of New York, finished second in the competition this spring, having beaten Donald H. Davidson, of St. Paul, who had held the cup two years—1922 and 1924. B. M. Spock, of New Haven, held the cup in 1923 and has refused to compete for it since.

In Plain Sight Day and Night

ONE great advantage in having your office in Glendale's only modern office building is that everyone knows just where it is. The building rises at the business center and the transportation center, and is visible from every part of town.

Besides, it is a modern, fire-proof building, with elegant appointments and fast elevator service. Rates are moderate.

Glendalians Returns From Extended Trip

Paul Millbrook, 617 North Adams street, returned recently from a trip through the south and middle west. His itinerary included Kansas City, St. Louis and Memphis, Tenn. Millbrook was in Memphis when the government steamer M. E. Norman went down in the Mississippi, taking a toll of twenty-three lives, and reached the scene of the disaster shortly afterwards.

The following day he witnessed the public reception accorded Tom Lee, negro hero of the tragedy, on the city hall steps at Memphis. Lee, single-handed, saved thirty-three persons from drowning, and was personally lauded for his bravery by Mayor Paine, in behalf of the citizens of Memphis. It is understood that Lee is in line for the Carnegie medal.

Millbrook reports a general spirit of optimism prevailing in both business and labor circles in the middle west, especially in the region about St. Louis, which, he says, is enjoying its most prosperous year since the close of the war. Glendale, he says, is as well known about St. Louis as it is in Southern California, and is on the lips of a good many people intending to locate in the southland.

Riley, Baptist minister from Minneapolis, Minn., and the topic was the question of the truth of evolution. Among Glendale people attending were Rev. W. E. Edmonds, W. F. Tower and son, Robert.

DONOR HIDES IDENTITY

BOLTON, England, June 20.—Five thousand dollars have been given to the Bolton infirmary by an anonymous mill worker. The donor entered the office of the secretary of the infirmary, threw a package of notes on the desk and disappeared after saying:

"There are some notes. Count them. Don't bother about a receipt. My name must not be mentioned; otherwise I'll not give you another penny."

DARWIN NOT IN COURT SAYS SCIENTIST

Little Benefit To Public
Or Evolution Proponents
Probable Is Belief

PORTLAND, Ore., June 20.—"Evolution is not on trial but rather a single individual in a community. I doubt very much whether anything of benefit to science will come out of the whole affair."

Thus did Dr. C. E. Grunsky of San Francisco, president of the Pacific division of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, in convention here today, sum up to International Service his opinion of the forthcoming trial in Dayton, Tenn., of Professor John Scopes for teaching the laws of evolution in violation of the laws of Tennessee.

"There is a small ray of hope that out of the trial there may come a saner knowledge on the part of the public of evolution—but I doubt it," Dr. Grunsky said. "People invariably smile when the subject of evolution is brought up for discussion. But just look around. The laws of nature are rather immutable. Things will go on—will evolve and change from day to day—no matter what we do about it."

Bible Figurative

Although he intimated there should be no conflict between evolution and religion, Dr. Grunsky gave it as his opinion that much of the Bible is figurative.

"When a day is mentioned in the Scriptures, it is not meant a day as we know it but rather an epoch. However, people who take every word of it in the literal sense, are still very numerous. And I guess they will continue to do so no matter what they see transpiring before them every day in life."

CANADA LENDS AID

MONTREAL, June 20.—Canadian co-operation with American authorities to prevent smuggling across the boundary, chiefly liquor, took concrete form today when parliament voted an expenditure of $35,000 to organize and maintain a Canadian service on the northern side of the line. Contraband goods to the extent of $50,000,000 a year have been flowing across the border, according to official estimates.

The HOUSE of the ARROW

A SERIAL STORY WRITTEN BY A. E. W. MASON
Protected By The McClure Newspaper Syndicate

He turned towards Ann Upcott. "Now, Mademoiselle, will you please repeat exactly your movements here on the night when Madame Harlowe died? You came into the room—so. You stood by the electric light switch there. You turned it on, you noticed the time, and you turned it off quickly. For this communicating door stood wide open—so!—and a strong light poured out of Madame Harlowe's bedroom through the doorway."

Hanaud was very busy, placing himself first by the side of Ann to make sure that she stood in the exact place which she had described, and then running across the room to set wide open the communicating door.

"You could just see the light gleaming on the ornaments and the plectrum of the sedan chair, on the other side of the fireplace on your right. So! And there, Mademoiselle, you stood in the darkness and," his words lengthened out now with tiny intervals between each one—"you heard the sound of the struggle in the bedroom and caught some words spoken in a clear whisper."

"Yes," Ann replied with a shiver. The solemn manner of authority with which he spoke obviously alarmed her. She looked at him with troubled eyes.

"Then will you stand there once more," he continued, "and once more listen as you listened on that night? I thank you!" He went away to Betty. "Now, Mademoiselle, and you, Francine Roland, will you both please come with me."

He walked towards the communicating door but Betty did not even attempt to rise from her chair.

"Monsieur Hanaud," she said with her cheeks very white and her voice shaking, "I can guess what you propose to do. But it is horrible and rather cruel to us. And I cannot see how it will help."

Ann Upcott broke in before Hanaud could reply. She was more troubled even than Betty, though without doubt hers was to be the easier part.

"It cannot help at all," she said. "Why must we pretend now the dreadful thing which was lived then?"

Hanaud turned about in the doorway. "Ladies, I beg of you to let me have my way. I think that when I have finished, you will yourselves understand that my experiment has not been without its use. I understand of course that moments like these bring their distress. But—you will pardon me—I am not thinking of you"— and there was so much quietude and gravity in the detective's harsh though they were, carried with them no offence. "No, I am thinking of a woman more than double the age of either of you, whose unhappy life came to an end here on the night of April 27. I am remembering two photographs which you, Mademoiselle Harlowe, showed me this morning—I am moved by them. Yes, that is the truth."

He closed his eyes as if he saw those two portraits with their dreadful contrast impressed upon his eyelids. "I am her advocate," he cried aloud in a stirring voice. "The tragic woman, I stand for her! If she was done to death, I mean to know and I mean to punish!"

Never had Hanaud believed that Hanaud could have been so transformed, could have felt or spoken with so much passion. He stood before them an erect and menacing figure, all his grossness melted out of him, a man with a flaming sword.

"As for you two ladies, you are young. What does a little distress matter to you? A few shivers of discomfort? How long will they last? I beg you not to hinder me!"

Betty rose up from her chair without another word. But she did not rise without an effort, and when she stood up at last she swayed upon her feet and her face was as white as chalk.

"Come, Francine!" she said, pronouncing her words like a person with an impediment of speech. "We must show Monsieur Hanaud that we are not the cowards he takes us for."

But Francine still held back. "I don't understand at all. I am only a poor girl and this frightens me. The police! They set traps—the police!"

Hanaud laughed. "And how often do they catch the innocent in them? Tell me that, Mademoiselle Francine!"

He turned almost contemptuously towards Mrs. Harlowe's bedroom. Betty and Francine followed upon his heels, the others trooped in behind, with Frohisher last of all. He, indeed, was as reluctant to witness Hanaud's experiment as the girls were to take a part in it. It saved of the theatrical. There was to be some sort of imagined reproduction of the scene which Ann Upcott had described, no doubt with the object of testing her sincerity. It would really be a test of nerves more than a test of honesty and to Jim was, therefore, neither reliable nor fair play. He paused in the doorway to say a word of encouragement to Ann, but she was gazing again with that curious air of perplexity at the clock upon the marquetry cabinet.

"There is nothing to fear, Ann," he said, and she withdrew her eyes from the clock. They were dancing now as she turned them upon Frohisher.

"I wondered whether I should ever hear you call me by my name," she said with a smile. "Thank you, Jim!" She hesitated and then the blood suddenly mounted into her face. "I'll tell you, I was a little jealous," she added in a low voice and with a little laugh at herself as though she was a trifle ashamed of the confession.

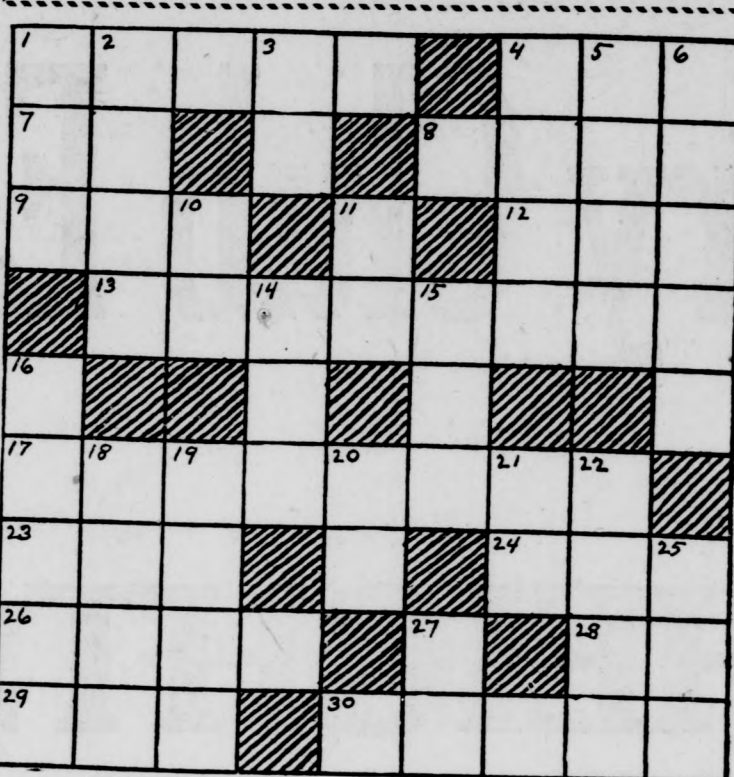

Jim was luckily spared the awkwardness of an answer by the appearance of Hanaud in the doorway.

"I hate to interrupt, Monsieur Frohisher," he said with a smile; "but it is of a real importance that Mademoiselle should listen without anything to distract her."

Jim followed Hanaud into the bedroom, and was startled. The commissaire and his secretary and Monsieur Box were in a group apart near to one of the windows. Betty Harlowe was stretched upon Mrs. Harlowe's bed; Francine Roland stood against the wall, near to the door, clearly frightened out of her wits and glancing from side to side with the furtive restless eyes of the half-famed. But it was not this curious spectacle which so surprised Jim Frohisher, but something strange, something which almost shocked, in the aspect of Betty herself. She was leaning upon an elbow with her eyes fixed upon the doorway and the queerest, most inscrutable fierce look in them that he had ever seen. The experiment from which Francine shrank had no meaning for her. She was possessed—the old phrase leaped into Jim's thoughts—though her face was as still as a mass, a mask of frozen passion. It was only for a second, however, that the strange seizure lasted. Betty's face relaxed; she dropped back upon the bed with her eyes upon Hanaud like one waiting for instructions.

Hanaud, by pointing a finger, directed Jim to take his place among the group at the window. He placed himself upon one side of the bed, and beckoned to Francine. Very slowly she approached the end of the bed. Hanaud directed her in the same silent way to come opposite to him on the other side of the bed. For a little while Francine refused. She stood stubbornly shaking her head at the very foot of the bed. She was terrified of some trick, and when at last a sign from Betty she took up the position assigned to her, she mimed to it gingerly as though she feared the floor would open beneath her feet. Hanaud made her another sign and she looked at a scrap of paper on which Hanaud had written some words. The paper and her orders had obviously been given to her while Jim was talking to Ann Upcott. Francine knew what she was to do, but her suspicious peasant nature utterly rebelled against it. Hanaud beckoned to her with his eyes riveted

UNCLE WIGGILY

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE FOUR-LEAF CLOVER

Uncle Wiggily happened to look out of the window of his hollow stump bungalow one day, and he saw Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy walking around in the grass, with her head bent over and her eyes looking sharply at the ground.

"What's the matter with Nurse Jane?" asked Uncle Wiggily of his wife, who was getting ready to take some of the bunny children to the moving pictures. "Has she lost the pancake turner so we can't have and strawberry long-cake for breakfast?"

"I didn't know she had lost anything," said Mrs. Longears. "Oh, please, Jingle, don't wiggle so or I can't tie your hair ribbon!" she spoke to the rabbit child she was helping to get ready for the entertainment.

"She seems to have lost something in the grass," said Uncle Wiggily. "Maybe she is helping look for a ball the boys tossed this way. I'll go out and help her." But when he asked the muskrat lady housekeeper what she was seeking, Nurse Jane answered: "I am looking for a four-leaf clover."

"What for—to eat?" the bunny wanted to know. "If so you are wasting your time, Janie, for a four-leaf clover will taste no better than one with two or three leaves!"

"I know that," answered the muskrat lady. "I don't want to eat the clover. But one with four leaves will bring good luck, it is said, and I want good luck."

"Nonsense!" laughed the bunny gentleman. "Your luck is what you make it—hard work counts best of all. Besides, what good luck do you want that you haven't got already, Nurse Jane?"

"Oh, I don't know," was the answer. "I just want a four-leaf clover for luck—that's all, and I'm going to search until I find one. It may be foolish—but I'm going to do it."

"It certainly is foolish," said Uncle Wiggily to himself, when some time later he looked out in the yard and Nurse Jane was still looking for a four-leaf clover.

"There are millions of three-leaf clovers," went on the bunny, "but very few with four leaves. I know what I shall do. I'll play a trick on Janie. I'll pull one leaf off a three-leaf clover plant and glue it on another with three leaves. It will look like one with four leaves. I'll hide it in the grass near where Nurse Jane is looking. She will think she has found what she wants, and then I'll tell her about the trick and make her see that there is no luck in a four-leaf clover."

With the pot of glue Uncle Wiggily was busy making a three-leaf clover into one of four leaves and he just had it finished, and was about to hide the trick plant in the grass when, all of a sudden, the Woozle Wolf jumped in the window of the bungalow and howled:

"I've come to nibble your ears, Uncle Wiggily!"

"Oh, have you?" asked the bunny calm and collected like. "Well, not this time!" And with that he took the glue brush and put a lot of the sticky stuff on a piece of paper and clapped it over the month of the bad chap.

"There! Now, let's see you open your jaws to nibble me!" cried the bunny. And the glue was so strong the Wolf couldn't open his mouth and away he ran back to his den.

Nurse Jane saw the bad chap jump out of the bungalow window, and the muskrat lady, who was still searching in the grass for a clover, rushed up to see if Uncle Wiggily had been hurt.

"Hurt? Not a bit of it!" laughed the bunny. "I was making a pretend four-leaf clover to show you how silly it was to think they were lucky, and I glued the Wolf's mouth shut."

"Ha! Ha!" laughed the muskrat lady.

"What's the matter?" asked the bunny.

"The idea of you saying four-leaf clovers aren't lucky!" went on Nurse Jane. "If you hadn't been trying to make one the Wolf would have nibbled you. Of course four-leaf clovers are lucky!"

"Well, perhaps they are—if you make them yourself!" chuckled the rabbit. And if the egg beater doesn't try to walk upside down and go to sleep in the pansy bed, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the old tin can.

'RAISES DEVIL' DISHING OUT RELIGION

Former Sports Writer Wins Praise For New Type Of Evangelistic Work

By CAL FISHER
For Southland News Service.
LOS ANGELES, June 20.—Dr. A. Ray Petty, well known to thousands of Southern California young men for his newspaper work as a sporting writer, for his student secretary work with the local Y. M. C. A., and as associate pastor of Temple Baptist church, has arrived in Los Angeles for a few days' rest at the home of his brother, Dr. F. F. Petty. He is a graduate of Occidental college, and a former resident of Santa Ana and Pasadena. All of which leads up to the fact that he is acclaimed to be a new type of evangelist that has awakened the middle west, although he now holds the pastorate of Judson Memorial Baptist church in New York City.

Makes 'Em Think
Dr. Petty has just finished a memorable campaign in Des Moines, Iowa, which has aroused comment in national publications, and his home-coming to Los Angeles was marked by a speech before the Optimists' club in the Biltmore hotel, which set his listeners agog.

The galling gun delivery of his message, be it in pulpit or banquet hall, has won fame for the former son of the southland. He gets going at a rate of 300 to 400 words a minute with perfect enunciation and enough physical action to hypnotize his hearers with more than mere words. Iowa people traveled for miles to hear the New York pastor tell them a thing or two. He admitted to the writer that he had literally "raised the devil," but he hopes to have him buried pretty soon.

New Method Used
Selfishness, the lack of ideals and psychological dishonesty with which the world and business tries to solve its problems, are topics which Dr. Petty stresses. He makes his hearers differentiate between the right and the wrong and it isn't long before he has them on the threshold of Christianity, according to the Des Moines papers. It's a brand new way of handling religion, reviewers declare, although it may be the preacher's dynamic personality and punch.

At any rate this Occidental graduate of 1907 is delivering the goods without resorting to emotional appeal or the slang of Billy Sunday. He looks at problems as they exist for busy men and women of today. He tells them in so many words that American ideals have fallen flat and urges honesty, optimism, courage and the brotherhood of man.

Get Naval Planes for Non-Stop Hawaii Hop

SAN DIEGO, June 20.—With the scheduled arrival here later today of the two PN-9 naval planes to be used in the attempted non-stop flight from the Pacific coast to Honolulu, the navy is expected to bring to a rapid close preparations for the flight, now tentatively set for about the first of September. Commander John Rodgers, who will have charge of the Hawaiian flight, arrived here yesterday aboard the aircraft tender Wright from Pearl harbor and will assume charge of testing the PN planes. The third plane, of the Boeing type, to be used in the over-ocean flight is expected in the near future from Seattle.

Whether San Francisco or San Diego will be used as the starting point for the Honolulu hop has not been definitely decided and probably will not be decided until a few days before the take-off as prevailing weather conditions that time will determine the starting place, it was learned in naval circles.

JAPAN'S WOMEN JOIN

OSAKA, Japan, June 20.—The first movement on the part of salaried women in Japan to obtain better working conditions from employers was started here when women canvassers employed by an insurance company presented demands for improvement in the working system. Among the demands were that canvassers should not be discharged for failure to obtain results so long as they worked hard and faithfully, and that Sundays should be made holidays.

BABY WAVE IN RADIO WILL GET TEST

Arctic Expedition to Send Messages During Cruise As New Experiment

By ROBERT MACK
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925
WASHINGTON, D. C., June 20.—The 38½ meter wave length is to be under constant observation for the next two or three months, beginning Saturday, when the MacMillan arctic expedition leaves Wiscasset, Me., on a voyage as interesting to radio engineers and amateurs as to scientists and explorers.

Arrangements have been made to keep a complete log of the messages received and transmitted on the 38.5 meter wave from the time of the start of the cruise until the explorers return. Although it is confidently believed by John L. Reinartz, Jr., radio operator for the MacMillan party, and other pioneers in the ultra-short wave field that the transmitters carried on the trip will be able to maintain constant communication with North America, more conservative engineers give the high frequency set only a fifty-fifty chance of getting through to the states.

Amateurs Ready
Several hundred amateurs throughout the country have reported to the American Radio Relay league that they are now equipped with receivers capable of picking up messages on the short-wave length whose freakish ability to jump distances is expected to bring back the dots and dashes from a region of the earth heretofore beyond the realm of radio communication.

Only one of the hundreds of the amateurs may hear the MacMillan messages, it is said, but through the co-operation of the Radio Relay league, that single message can be repeated and relayed to every amateur operating in the United States. And for that matter in the world. In addition to his plan to prove the efficiency of high frequency transmission, Reinartz has a second ambition which he hopes to realize this summer, namely, the transmission of the human voice from the arctic zone to the United States. Instead of a fifty-fifty chance of fulfilling this wish, conservative science is laying odds of ten to one against the enthusiasm of the radio engineers.

Plan Important Tests
The MacMillan experiments with short waves will be only one of several important tests that are to be made in the high frequency field within the next two months. The American Radio Relay league has announced its definite plans for intensive tests that are to begin July 15. These transmissions will be on five, twenty and forty meters and are to be continued over forty-eight periods in order that the results may be thoroughly studied in relation to all working conditions. The tests will be repeated July 25 and August 1. Complete data will be collected from all of the co-operative amateurs and an exhaustive study made that is expected to be of great help in the development of the baby-wave-length field.

The latest estimate of the number of radio sets in use in the United States places the figure at 3,500,000. The number is expected to be increased by approximately 1,000,000 sets a year until the total is almost 10,000,000 in 1930. These totals are compared with the 15,000,000 automobiles in use and the 9,000,000 phonographs in American homes.

Honor His Highness
One of the most interesting broadcasting experiments of the month has been arranged by KNOX Pittsburgh, which station expects to radio a verbal message from the governor-general of Canada, wired to Pittsburgh from Ottawa, to the Prince of Wales, in South Africa. The regular 390-meter wave length of the Pittsburgh station will be used for listeners in the United States and the 600-meter wave length for the transmission to South Africa. The broadcast is scheduled for next Tuesday night at 11 o'clock eastern standard time.

CAN AID CHILDREN
SYRACUSE, N. Y., June 20.—Many cases of feeble-mindedness, insanity and criminal tendencies among adults can be charged directly to a policy of "locking the door after the horse is stolen." Declaring lack of proper training of children of pre-school age is an important reason why asylums and prisons are filled, Dr. Douglas A. Thomas, noted Boston psychologist, told the medical society of the state of New York, at its convention here, that foresight and proper understanding of children on the part of the parents and teachers would mould children's characters so that they would grow up to be normally intelligent, reasoning and law-abiding citizens.

DOCTORS CLEAN HOUSE
SYRACUSE, N. Y., June 20.—State legislation to curb illegal medical practice in the operation of fake anatomical museums, advertising quacks, fraudulent patent medicines, diploma mills, fake beauty parlors and massurers, a-plastic surgeons, who prey on the credulous public, will be asked by the New York Medical Society, as a result of the society's annual convention here. Diploma mills where degrees are sold instead of earned are to be attacked by the doctors in a vehement manner.

Interest Turns To Meet At Poughkeepsie; Huskies Race East's Best

By DAVIS J. WALSH
For International News Service.
NEW YORK, June 20.—Camp followers of intercollegiate rowing returned today from New London, where Harvard beat the course record, but couldn't beat Yale, and turned their attention to Poughkeepsie, where on Monday the University of Washington will attempt to repeat its 1923-24 triumph at the expense of the combined east. It will be no push-over assignment.

Washington's problem figured to be even more complex than was Yale's, in spite of the fact that the Blue was chased right into the line by a Harvard crew that refused to be beaten until the last half mile.

The indications today were that the Huskies would have to reckon seriously with at least three of the six entries that will take the mark with them to the list of admitted contenders, hitherto embracing Washington, Wisconsin and the Navy, to which has been added Pennsylvania, which sprang into overnight prominence as a result of a sensational time trial.

Has Fast Crew
Internal bickering has been visited on the Pennsylvania camp, but sometimes the resentment caused thereby has proved a blessing in dark glasses and a beard. Guy Nickalls was eased out of Yale in the midst of mutual recriminations two weeks before the Harvard race of 1921, yet Yale was fighting mad and won.

Pennsylvania hasn't exactly the same chance, but it has a fast crew that may develop enough fight and stamina to be up with the pacemakers at the finish.

Logical Favorites
The two logical favorites, of course, are Washington and the Navy, and when it comes down to a question of brass thumb screws, this pair, and none other, figures to do about all the racing for the field on Monday. At the moment they are almost to stand-off, with the Huskies ruling a slight favorite.

So close do they run in pre-race calculations even the experts admit themselves to be confounded. They could know what either or both would do at the half-way mark they would have their answer. But they cannot foresee what any boatload of human beings may do at a given time.

All they can do is predict what everyone else knows—that the crew that wins will do so in the third mile.

Boxing Notes

Tod Morgan, clever Vallejo, Cal feather, was scheduled to issue a challenge to post a forfeit with the California Boxing commission today for a title bout with Kid Kaplan, champion, following his defeat in Hollywood arena last night of Stewart McLean, St. Paul boxer.

In the semi-windup, Lou Rolinger, Chicago schoolboy, light heavyweight, defeated Billy McGowan, New Orleans.

At East Chicago—Eddie Shea, Chicago, easily outpointed Harold Smith, Chicago, ten rounds; Bushy Graham, Utica, N. Y., won from Joe Ryder, New York, eight rounds.

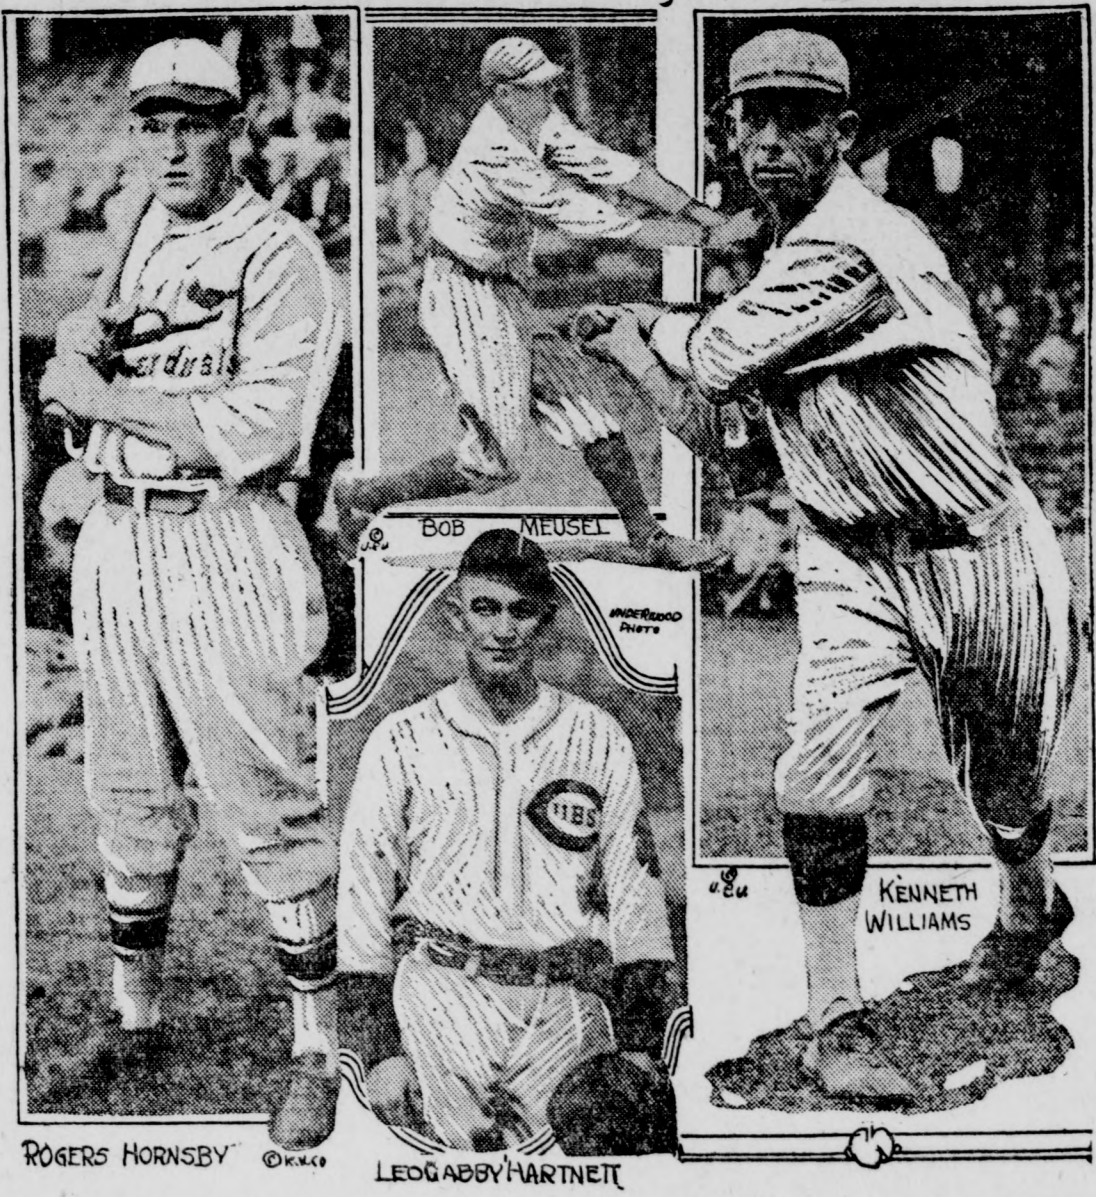

DECISION UNPOPULAR

Pop bottles darkened the sky as the Giants just lasted to the wire to beat the Reds, 5 to 4, at Redland field. The home town nine reached and almost tied the score against Greenfield and Wisner in the ninth, but Umpire Pihman ruled that Walker was out because Bressler interfered with Kelly's throw to first. Then the fun began.

Swat Kings—1925 Models

BABE RUTH, holder of all sorts of records when it comes to putting the horsehide out of reach of anxious fielders, has four rivals for honors this year. Although Babe got away to a bad start, he is beginning to find the pill and sending it in search of a home. Some of Babe's rivals for home-run honors are shown.

ROGERS HORNSBY

KENNETH WILLIAMS

By NORMAN E. BROWN
Written for The Evening News

When Babe Ruth socked out his first home run of the season the other day at least four bludgeoned wielders in the big show probably began to wonder how long they would be battling for the four-base honors.

These men, while they are slugging out circuit clouts at a good pace for the average slugger, are not traveling the gait that Babe is accustomed to travel when he is right. Should Babe swing into his home run stride at this date he could overtake them quite handily at the rate they are going. For when Babe is right fifteen homers by the second week in June isn't a very high average.

The four men who are striving for home run honors while Babe comes back into his own are Gabby Hartnett of the Cubs and Rogers Hornsby, Cardinal manager, in the National league, and Ken Williams of the Browns and Bob Meusel of the Yanks in the American circuit.

Hartnett led the pack for many weeks, due partly to a hitting rampage that netted him five homers in a few days. He is the newcomer in the ranks. Bob Meusel never has been a home run hitter extraordinary. His work this year with the bat is phenomenal. Hornsby is not a circuit buster although one of the greatest base hit collectors the game has ever known. Ken Williams has been battling for home run honors for several years. He picked up the knack of hitting homers after the germ had lain dormant in his system for years.

If Ruth fails to get his full strength back in time to swing into his usual batting style these four men may battle it out for honors. Babe himself, however, allows as how it will take a better record than they are setting to halt him, despite his tardy beginning.

GOSLIN GETS THREE

Somebody has been feeding that Goslin boy run meat again. He ran amuck with three homers in the last of which came in the twelfth and gave the Senators a 7-to-5 victory over the Indians.

FRY'S PHYSICAL FACTS

By PROF. BYRON G. FRY
Health Expert and Champion Bag Puncher of America
Written For The Evening News

Q—Is the swinging of Indian clubs a good muscle building exercise?

A—The swinging of Indian clubs is an exercise that will improve and live up to a poor circulation, but they will not build much muscle unless the weight of the clubs is increased gradually.

I knew a man who tried this experiment of increasing the weight of his clubs until they weighed 25 pounds apiece. He had a frail body when he started using the clubs and at the end of eighteen months he was built something like a Hercules.

He used to take his heavy clubs to the beaches and swing them around a while, set them down and start talking with some friend. As there are lots of club swingers, he did not have to wait long before someone started to pick up his clubs with the intention of duplicating his former exhibition.

The average club swinger would only start to pick them up. These clubs would slip out of their fingers and it is not hard to imagine the great expression of surprise that would flit across their faces.

They seemed to be dumfounded. They knew they just saw this modest appearing young man give a very good exhibition of club swinging, with a pair of clubs that they could hardly lift with their hands, and they saw him spin them around with his fingers.

Progressive exercise has no limit of physical development. Most men know how hard it is to chin the bar with one arm or even lift their feet off the ground. Well, Lillian Litzel, a woman, chinned the bar with one arm twenty-seven times, and is the undisputed champion rope climber of all time.

She could do much to help settle the Darrow and Bryan dispute. She would be more at home on the

TRUCKMEN BEAT RADIO TEAM, 11-3

Six Run Lead In First Too Much To Overcome As Doll Effective

Six runs in the first inning gave the Hull Trucks a lead that was too much for the Radios to cut down, in the Twilight league game played yesterday at Broadway High school, and the truckmen won, 11 to 3. Watts started the game for the Radios, but retired in favor of DeSera, when five men crossed the plate on a walk, double, homer, single and another homer, before a truckman had been put out.

Rand Doll did the chucking for the truckmen and held the Radios to two singles. He fanned six men, but what would have been a good record was spoiled by the eight passes he issued, four of them coming in the first inning, one in the second, one in the third and two in the fourth.

The shortest inning for the truckmen was the second. Wilson hit to Fortunato. Wolfe went back for Fannett's foul and Rand Doll fanned. In two innings, the first and fourth, the truckmen batted around and in the third, six men faced DeSera.

The box score:

RINGSIDE GOSSIP FAIR PLAY

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.

NEW YORK, June 20.—In all the talk of Gene Tunney meeting Harry Wills several facts should be borne in mind. One is that Tunney is a negro. Another is that no necessity is imposed upon him to fight Wills unless he wishes to do so for financial and other reasons.

He has defeated a man who went the fifteen round limit with the champion, who made a better showing against him than any contender that Dempsey has met.

If he, Tunney, wants to try his luck against Dempsey and can induce the champion to meet him, he has every right to clinch the battle, turning a deaf ear to the demands that he meet any one else.

There, of course, should he defeat the champion and take over the title, his status would change and he would be called upon to listen to the claims of all challengers, Wills among others.

Tunney's manager is busy picking up easy matches for his man. That is all right, too. As for Dempsey, Tunney probably would rather fight him a year from now than say next September. Just now there is a lot of easy money in sight for the conqueror of Gibbons and besides he is picking up weight.

When he is heavier he will gain more supporters of his standing as a rival of Dempsey's than he now has. Tunney figures that by the time another twelve months have passed he will have brought his fighting weight up to 189 pounds, which he regards as the limit of his possibilities.

He believes, and justly, that he will never need to be any heavier than this, that tipping the beam just short of 190 pounds he will be big enough to meet any opponent, no matter how much he weighs. All of which is fair enough.

Cutting In Charge Of Rifle Match Tryouts

The tryouts for the National rifle match, sponsored by the government, will be held at Marsh field, Riverside, July 11 and 12, according to Ned Cutting of Glendale, president of the Los Angeles Rifle and Revolver club, who has been designated by the government as captain for the California team. Twelve men are to be selected to represent the state at the national meet, to be held at Camp Perry, Ohio, September 1 to 27, according to Cutting.

The tryouts at Riverside are for all men outside the ranks of military organizations. The government will pay railroad fare and hotel bills for members of the teams representing each state in the national meet. Glendalians interested in the tryouts are asked to communicate with Cutting at 2904 Rock Glen avenue.

Home Run In Ninth By Spencer Wins Game

Tubby Spencer's home run in a Garrison finish of the ninth inning yesterday won the game for Los Angeles, 8 to 7, over Seattle. His round trip, with two on, tied the score. Krug and Beck followed with doubles ending the session in which Umpire Carroll "canned" Manager Killefer for nervousness on the coaching line. Sacramento held Vernon, 4 to 3. Oakland won at Salt Lake, 10 to 6, and the Seals skidded, 11 to 6, when weak pitching let Portland romp around in the fifth and sixth innings.

BROWNS DEFEATED

The Athletics won a ball game from the Browns, 13 to 9, by excellent base running, but they lost another ball player when Bob injured his ankle in the seventh. Gray, winner of eight straight, returned to the pastime, but the Browns found him easy picking.

EXTRA INNING GAME

Combs' single off Cuyangos in the eleventh gave the Yankees a 4-to-3 decision over the White Sox, and they are now launched upon another winning streak of one straight.

DEFEAT DODGERS

Immoderate hitting by Traynor and the rest of the Pirates in the late innings proved too much for the Dodgers, who lost again, 9 to 6.

YANK POLO TEAM DEFEATS BRITISH

First Of Army Series Goes To Americans, 8 to 4; Royalty Present

By HARRY FLORY
For International News Service.
LONDON, June 20.—The Yank invaders upset expectations and took the first of the British-American polo matches today, 8 to 4. The Americans' team work, hitting and all-around play was superior to that of the British and although the visitors' ponies did not seem quite to match up with those of the Britons, the daring of the invaders carried them through to victory. They were on in front from the first chukker and never were passed.

Major A. H. Wilson, brilliant No. 1 of the American team, suffered a nasty fall when his pony clattered over the sideboards in the fourth chukker, but he continued in the line-up.

Royalty Present
King George, Queen Mary, the Duke of York and Prince Henry, in the royal box, received the players before the opening of play and cheered the Americans in their winning dashes.

The pavilions were a brilliant spectacle as fashionable London fresh from the races at Ascot, filled the boxes for the first of the series of three matches. The second will be played next Wednesday.

The teams lined up:
U. S. Army Position British Army
Major Wilson, No. 1, Cap. McCree, Cap. Gorhardt, No. 2, Lieut. McCree, Cap. Rhodes, No. 3, Cap. Denning, Major Beard, No. 4, Maj. Boles, Captain Rhodes and Major Beard divided scoring honors for the visitors with four each and the McCreeys accounted for Britons four with two apiece.

Local Letter Carriers Meet L. A. Postal Crew

First place in the Postal league will be determined tomorrow afternoon at Thirty-eighth and Ascot streets, Los Angeles, when the Glendale Letter Carriers meet the Los Angeles Postoffice Clerks.

The Los Angeles Clerks are in first place now, with the local mailmen pushing them hard, and a victory for the Glendale Carriers tomorrow will put them on top.

Manager A. S. Wood will start either Bush or Richards on the mound. Bush worked against the Long Beach team last Sunday pitching both games, and got twenty-one strikeouts in seventeen innings. Whitley will do the receiving. Other players in the local lineup will include Wietzel, Shoemaker, Currier, Selover, Nye, Wright and Bullock.

Pacific Coast Tennis Tourney At Berkeley

BERKELEY, Cal., June 20.—The 1925 Pacific coast tennis championships got under way at the Berkeley Tennis club here today with the largest entry list in the history of the tournament. Four hundred and thirty players are entered including almost every star in the far west. Play will continue until June 28.

Helen Wills, national senior women's champion, and Helen Jacobs, national junior champion, will play their first rounds here this afternoon. The older girl meets Lois Hightower while the younger champion faces Ethel Barkhardt.

Miss Glenna Collett Wins French Crown

VERSAILLES, France, June 20.—Miss Glenna Collett, former American champion, today annexed the French women's golf title, defeating the plucky sixteen-year-old French champion, Mlle. Simone Thion De Lachaux, three up and one to play. The morning round ended all square.

Miss Collett jumped away to a sensational three up lead over Mlle. De Lachaux at the start of the afternoon round. The American girl won the first four holes, then dropped the fifth. After a beautiful drive on the first hole, Miss Collett sank a forty-five putt to win in three.

EHMKE HIT HARD

Tavener's triple with two on gave the Tigers an eleven-inning verdict over Ehmke and the Red Sox, 6 to 3.

Realtor's 'Death Gun'

LOS ANGELES, June 19.—Divers searched the ocean bottom near the end of the deserted pier at Venice today but failed to find a trace of the "death gun" used to kill James E. Daniels, Los Angeles real estate operator, formerly of San Francisco. Failure to locate the gun caused investigators to abandon the theory that Daniels committed suicide. Daniels' body was found on the pier with a shot through the heart and another wound in the right hand.
